Kidnap Try Fails

Teacher Shot In Attempt

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—A trembling man tried and failed Friday to kidnap a little boy from school but he wounded one man teacher and put a bullet through a door that three women were bracing against him.

He fled and all detectives in the city were put on the chase.

The teacher who was wounded, Manvel Schauffler, suffered only a shattered finger and a head bump.

The boy who was the object of the attempt, George F. Brice III, 9, son of a wealthy real estate man, didn't know about it until it was all over and he was called to the principal's office at Catlin-Hillside, a private school in the city's northwest hills.

The would-be kidnapper had gone to the Brice home, thinking this was a school holiday, then forced Mrs. Brice and the family maid, Lizzie Mae Brown, at pistol point to drive him to the school. Mrs. Brice said he seemed drunk or drugged and was trembling.

But at the school he let Mrs. Brice go in alone when she assured him that no child is allowed to leave during school hours unless called for by a parent.

She warned officials and Principal James Angell phoned for police. The man shortly followed Mrs. Brice and a chase started with Mrs. Brice running into the adjoining fifth grade room. She, the teacher, Mrs. Ema Lou Lawrence, and the principal's wife who had run in there, too, held the door and called for the children—some 10 were in the room—to help.

Schauffler, in the corridor, saw the man with a gun at the door and made a grab for him.

Three shots were fired in quick succession, one shattering Schauffler's finger, one hitting a wall and one going through the door inches above Mrs. Lawrence's head, showering her with wood splinters.

Then the man fled.

Mrs. Brice said when the man entered her home he first said his "boss" wanted $300,000, then said the boy would be sent home in a taxi at night if $125,000 were paid.

Free Use of Sterling Widened

London Gold Market To Reopen

LONDON (Reuters) — The British treasury announced today that the London gold market, closed at the outbreak of the Second World War, will be reopened Monday.

It also announced an important technical freeing of the international use of sterling.

Before the war, London was the world's leading gold market. If it can regain that position, Britain will reap new profits. A fresh flow of sterling to Britain from overseas will also be attracted.

Today's announcements mean that dealings in the London market will be in sterling. Anyone inside or outside the sterling area—including Russia—will be allowed to sell gold.

But only persons and nations outside the sterling area will be allowed to buy gold. They will have to pay for it in sterling which has been bought with dollars or gold.

If Canada and the United States buy, they will be asked to pay for the gold with sterling they already have.

In effect, the treasury is allowing the London bullion market to try to get, in sterling, the international business in free gold which some continental European centres have been doing in dollars.

OTTAWA, (CP) — Finance Minister Abbott says he welcomes Britain's move to widen the free use of sterling in the non-dollar area.

Sun Likely To Remain

Bright skies and gentle breezes are the week-end outlook for the lower Island according to the weather office. In fact, the sunshine seems likely to remain for some time, the forecasters say.

It's all due to the benign influence of a zone of high pressure nearly 1,000 miles out in the Pacific. Weather officials have observed a low-pressure centre bearing this way, but it seems likely to bounce off the high pressure area and go skidding off in the direction of Alaska, which doesn't expect anything better, anyway.

UBC Dental Faculty Indicated by Martin

The Hon. Eric Martin, minister of health and welfare, told members of the B.C. Dental Association last night that they could expect an optimistic announcement from the floor of the House shortly concerning a dental faculty for UBC.

His announcement was greeted with cheers from doctor delegates who were attending a convention banquet in the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Martin said the fact that B.C. did not have a dental college resulted in Canada losing many of her most promising young men. He said a large number had been taking their training in Washington and Oregon, and were not returning to this province.

"There is a terrible shortage of dentists not only in B.C., but all over Canada," he said.

After explaining that there had not been any increased teaching facilities provided in the last 25 years, Mr. Martin said it was essential that something be done in the field of dentistry as rapidly as possible.

He told members to contain their patience for a little while longer because the government agreed in principle with their requests, and that the next step was the provision of funds to make the dental faculty a reality.

Guest speaker Dr. Brock Chisholm, former director-general of the World Health Organization, told the group that it was up to each and every individual in the prosperous countries of the world to do their part in preventing another world war.

"Help has to be given by people that have to people that do not have," Dr. Chisholm said.

Explaining that untold millions in the world did not know what it was like not to go hungry, Mr. Chisholm said that the eyes of millions of people were on Canada because it represented "unimaginable prosperity."

He stated that since the people of Canada did not realize the situation as it existed, they did not press the government to increase budgets to such organizations as the UN.

Budget Unopposed As House Critics Silenced for Vote

Expenditure of $204,000,000 Sanctioned as Debate Ends

BY T. A. MYERS
Colonist Legislative Reporter

The government spoke with its most thunderous voice yesterday afternoon to silence the critics of its $204,000,000 budget.

Public Works Minister P. A. Gaglardi, who developed his oratorical style behind the pulpit of a Pentacostal church and his aggressiveness at the controls of a bulldozer, was the man the premier chose to wrap up the budget debate.

The minister ran a verbal bulldozer over the CCF and Liberal groups collectively and most of their members individually. Then he called on them to support the Bennett Budget. And when the vote was taken, no one voted "no."

SPECIAL TARGET

Mr. Gaglardi's special target was Liberal Leader Arthur Laing, "the crepe-hanger," the "spreader of gloom." Mr. Laing and his followers were trying to block progress by "sitting on the tracks of the PGE." He warned them they were "going to be run over."

The only Liberal who got a kind word was freshman MLA George Gregory of Victoria who, Mr. Gaglardi said, was such a bright young man he would probably end up on the government side of the house.

He criticized Liberal Gordon Gibson's analysis of PGE losses as "a hodge-podge of figures based on nothing." Mr. Gibson's three-hour plea for a committee investigation of the southern PGE extension, like the PGE itself, "started nowhere, ended nowhere and went nowhere."

CREDIT TO LIBERALS

Later in his speech the minister admitted that $10,000,000 of the $36,000,000 debt reduction which Social Credit has claimed was actually accomplished by the late Liberal government.

He told the House "the tragic story that's never been told before" of how Byron Johnson, just before he left office, used $10,000,000 of surplus funds for debt reduction, "money that was earmarked to pay for services that had been contracted for."

"Highway contracts," Premier Bennett interjected.

"They used that money for debt reduction so when we came in we were poverty-poor," Mr. Gaglardi said.

"And we had to go and borrow money," the premier added.

Mr. Gaglardi defended the government's proposed replacement of hospital insurance premiums by a 2 per cent increase in the sales tax.

This, he said, was "the best thing for the working man that ever happened in this province . . ." The thumping of Social Credit desks almost drowned out the qualifying phrase, "as far as insurance is concerned."

CCFERS BERATED

Mr. Gaglardi berated CCFers Leo Nimsick and Randolph Harding for their criticisms of the government's Doukhobor problem.

This kind of talk, he said, was "only adding fuel to the fire," probably stirring up new trouble among the Sons of Freedom.

He said the basis for the eventual solution of the Doukhobor problem must be the principle that "there can't be two classes of citizens, there's just one law for all."

The minister left many opposition members puzzled when he said: "There must be a basis of segregation and education for the assimilation of these people."

French Planes Busy

SAIGON, Indo-China—French planes blasted dug-in Communist Vietminh troops with bombs and flaming jellied gasoline around Dien Bien Phu Friday as swarms of helicopters lifted Wounded French soldiers from the beleaguered fortress.

Waves of fighters and bombers struck at the Communist rebels for the third straight day. Between the air blows, helicopters carried out casualties from blody fighting around the isolated fort in north-west Indo-China.

But there was little ground fighting. Rebel soldiers dug in barely 200 yards from French lines during last night's full moon but failed to make the expected night attacks.

American civilian pilots have braved communist anti-aircraft fire to airlift supplies to the embattled French defenders of Dien Bien Phu, it was disclosed today at Hanoi.

Budget Clearance Speeds Session

The current session of the legislature may end two weeks or more ahead of schedule.

With the budget debate out of the way, the decks are now cleared for action on estimates and legislation, a job the House may be able to finish in two weeks of hard slugging.

Premier Bennett said Friday he hoped things would go smoothly enough to eliminate the need for night sittings. Opposition Leader Arnold Webster said he hoped the House would prorogue on April 2.

Earlier estimates were that the session would last at least until April 15, the day before Good Friday, and many MLA's expected to be called back to Victoria after an Easter recess.

U.S. Betrayed, McCarthy Says

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Senator Joseph McCarthy accused Adlai Stevenson Friday night of using "the Communist method of attacking" him and the Republican party.

He also indicted the Democratic party for what he called "20 years of treason—20 deeds of betrayal." The deeds ranged from U.S. recognition of Russia in 1933 to the Truman administration's handling of the Korean war.

As he ticked off each of the "indictments," McCarthy called on Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, to "plead guilty or not guilty."

After McCarthy read each count, scattered members of the audience shouted: "Guilty, guilty, guilty."

Stevenson, in a speech to a Democratic gathering in Miami on March 6, lashed out at McCarthy and charged that the Republican party was "divided against itself, half McCarthy and half Eisenhower."

New Housing Regulations Go into Operation Monday

OTTAWA (CP)—The government Friday boosted the loans ceiling under its new housing legislation to $12,800 from $10,000 for a single house, but raised the maximum interest rate to 5½ per cent from 5¼.

The new legislation, which makes loans more expensive but extends the time to pay and reduces down payments on new homes, goes into operation Monday, about three months after it first began rolling through the parliamentary mill.

The proclamation date was announced in the Commons by Works Minister Winters who also made these points:

The interest rate for limited dividend companies—those who build rental housing for low-income families and keep company profits at a minimum of 5 per cent will remain unchanged at 3¾ per cent.

Home buyers who prepay their annual tax bills by monthly payments to mortgage holders will get interest on their payments at the bank rate of 2 per cent.

The bill, considered by the government as one of its major pieces of legislation in the current parliamentary session, opens the mortgage-lending field to chartered banks and the Quebec savings bank for the first time.

Jaycees Provide Colorful Greeting to Visitors

Victoria begins wearing a new welcome mat today. Letters 12-feet high which spell out "Welcome to Victoria" will be cut out of the turf on the grassy Causeway embankment right in front of the Legislative Buildings. Flowers will be planted later and should be blooming when this summer's tourist season reaches its height. Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce, which sponsored the plan, has kept it a closely-guarded secret since it was first mooted two months ago. The idea was suggested by Frank Mannix, 993 Admirals, and quickly found support among the members of the tourist and industrial development committee of the Jaycees. The provincial government was approached and permission was granted. The cut-outs will be made this morning by a group of 30 Jaycees. White alyssums will be planted next month as well as red geraniums. The red flowers will be planted in thin lines down the middle of the vertical strokes of the letters. This innovation will greet tourists coming to Victoria by ship and will be visible also from the Victoria and Island Tourist Bureau and the Empress Hotel. Total cost of the scheme will be paid for from proceeds derived from last year's B.C. Products Fair. "It won't cost residents a cent," said a spokesman last night. "We hope it will be renewed annually."

Cargo Plane Crash Toll Feared 18

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—A huge U.S. Air Force cargo plane with 18 persons aboard crashed in flames in a rain-drenched forest near here Friday night, and first reports said all were killed. Volunteer firemen reported from the scene at least 15 bodies had been found within a 10-acre area over which the wreckage was scattered.

The plane, identified by the air force as a twin-engine C-119, went down about 19 miles south of Annapolis.

Atom Plan Handed Soviet

WASHINGTON (AP)—United States-Soviet talks got down to brass tacks on President Eisenhower's atoms-for-peace plan Friday after three months of conversation about how to approach the subject.

State Secretary Dulles called in Soviet ambassador Georgi Zarubin and handed him what the state department called "a concrete plan."

"WHEN I was a boy in Ontario," a prominent citizen told me, "the river seemed as wide as the Mississippi, and the mountain seemed as high as Everest.

"Years later I went back. How everything had shrunk! The mountain was just a hummock, and the river was just a creek, that you could jump across."

The mountains and rivers of boyhood have a way of shrinking like that. The ogres turn into harmless old men and women. Young comrades in mischief suddenly grow to be middle-aged bores with paunches and worried frowns. It is a mistake to go back.

Rip Van Winkle is a poignant caricature of the returning exile. While he slept, a whole era of history rolled over his head like a bank of clouds blown by the wind, and he came down to find a village full of strangers who stared at his long beard and laughed.

In the fable of Rip Van Winkle, old Washington Irving distilled all the sadness of the passing of time. Nobody sleeps for 20 years. But there is something of Rip Van Winkle in every man who goes back to his home town or his home country after a long absence.

You hear of people who return to England after many years in Canada.

"Old Smith stayed in England only a couple of weeks, and booked his passage back to Canada on the first ship he could get," others say. "He didn't like it. I guess that proves that Canada is the best country in the world."

I hate to seem an unpatriotic Canadian, but it proves nothing of the sort. All it proves is that Smith went back and found things different.

In the mind, far-away people never change their appearance. But in real life they grow old, move away, perish, or forget.

Meanwhile, Mr. Smith has also grown older. Although he consciously rejects the notion, his inner mind hopes that in returning to his homeland he will also renew his youth. No such miracle happens.

So Mr. Smith returns a changed man to a changed homeland, and he doesn't like it. He should have conditioned himself for change by a series of tough mental exercises, or he should never have gone back at all.

There is only one remedy for this kind of disappointment: A time machine. I wish someone would hurry up and invent it.

Celery Requires Good Soil, Care

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Few vegetables are more succulent and universally liked than celery. As far as food energy is concerned, its value is negligible, but as a regulatory food and as a source of health-protective vitamins and minerals, it is most valuable.

Celery is highly attractive to the small black field slugs, and the cure for this pest is to fork in a mixture of equal parts copper sulphate and ground limestone into the topsoil at a rate of one pound to 20 square yards. If this is done about a month before planting out, it will kill all the slugs and slug eggs contacted.

Choose a deep soil in the lower part of the garden, for celery is a ditch plant and needs plenty of moisture. The ideal soil is a silty loam, rich in organic matter. If you are compelled to grow it on clay or light sand, prepare the soil early, enriching it with old manure or compost.

It is best to have the celery trenches ready several weeks before planting time, to allow the soil and manure to settle and form a good root bed. The trenches should be 15 inches wide for a single row of celery, and 18 to 20 inches for a double row of plants. Dont make the trench so deep as to get into the dead, infertile subsoil—12 inches is ample, and this should be reduced by filling up with manure. You'll need plenty, as celery simply cannot be grown successfully without lots and lots of organic matter. Rotted dung or compost is best, and failing this, use peat moss or leafmould supplemented with bonemeal, half a cupful per square yard, and sulphate of potash, one heaping tablespoonful per square yard. See that the organic matter is thoroughly wetted, then add two inches of good topsoil. If you wish, you can take a quick crop of radishes or those small table turnips from the trench while you are waiting for planting-out time.

Set out your plants in mid-May, preferably on a dull day, spacing them 9 inches apart each way. Water the plants in with a starter solution made by dissolving one tablespoonful of soluble fertilizer in a gallon of water and adding a few drops of vitamin B1. It is a good idea to mulch the plants immediately with grass mowings not only to keep the roots cool and moist, but to help keep the celery fly away.

Earth up the plants gradually, using the excavated soil from the trench. The best time is after rain, while the soil is moist and crumbly, and the first earthing-up should be done in August. Take off all side suckers first, give a dusting of lime to deter slugs, hold the plants bunched together (an old bicycle clip is useful for this job) and earth up to 4 inches, repeating the operation every three weeks.

Strictly speaking, celery will thrive in a slightly acid soil quite well, but calcium is appreciated, and I think the texture and sweetness is improved if the trench is dressed several weeks before planting out with one cupful of hydrated lime to each two yards of trench.

Dick Button Shines, Youngsters Charm

BY MAURY GWYNNE

Dick Button, one of the world's greatest figure skaters, thrilled thousands at Memorial Arena last night. But the biggest thrill of all was for Sharon Robbins. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Robbins of the Victoria Figure Skating Club, Sharon got expert advice from the Olympic champion just before the big show in which both took part. Sharon has been skating for only a year.

Olympic figure skating champion Dick Button jumped and spun his way to thunderous applause in the Memorial Arena last night.

Billed as the star of the Vic- [illegible] Capers," Mr. Button far outshone anyone else who appeared on the ice during the long show.

The brilliant style that has won him so many championships was much in evidence during his two brief appearances.

But for sheer entertainment, laughs and surprises, it would be hard to beat the youngsters who made up the bulk of the 15 acts.

Working hard at being ice stars, they slipped, stumbled and tumbled with such abandon and good cheer they added a charm to the show that no amount of training could improve.

But it wasn't all falls. Spotted throughout the "chorus" lines of small girls and boys was evidence of hard work and natural ability. A good number of the youngsters exhibited real talent that more training will develop into leading ice show material.

The big event of the evening was the "Peter Pan" number during the first half of the show.

Wendy, skated by Maralee Rutley; Tinker Bell, by Robin Lee, and Peter Pan, by Cathy Rivers, stole the show. Tinker Bell, who is so minute you have to look closely to see her, flashed around the ice like a true sprite.

Wendy skated away with all the poise of a professional and drew round after round of applause.

Peter Pan showed the way for all the others also, with fine, sure skating that never faltered.

Other than the unscheduled comic relief by one or two of the lost youngsters of the chorus line, English ice comedian Jan Tors rocked the house with laughter at his foolish antics.

Assisting him in his ballet number were Victorians Jim Buchan and Alec McCormac of the skating club. They worked hard at being comics, but it is a fine art that requires a lot of practice. Skating with a master like Tors kept the two local boys really busy.

The Connaught Four, the western fours champions for 1951-54 from Vancouver, put on a fine group show.

The only accident that marred the performances they put on was a fall by Brian Power after he slipped in a tricky routine with his partner, Audrey Downie. But it did little to detract from the sparkling performances.

The show can be seen today at 2 p.m. and again at 8 p.m.

Yellow Point Group To Give Three Plays

The Yellow Point Drama Club will present three one-act plays on March 26 and 27, in the Cedar Community Hall, Miss Anne Mossman directing.

Employment Increasing, Victoria Office Reports

A steady increase in payrolls of most industrial firms employing men in Greater Victoria is reported by the National Employment Service.

Construction work is slow because of unsettled weather delaying the primary work. During the past week, however, a wider variety of jobs than the previous week was reported.

Improved stability over the past few weeks was noted in the women's section. There was little turnover in staffs of local stores. Fully experienced waitresses for shift work and domestic workers are still in demand.

Job opportunities in other NES areas include those for linotype operator, architects, city asessor, baker, research chemist, butcher, dentist, compositor, draughtsmen, geologist, estimator, glove cutter and many others.

Scouts Discover Abbey Treasure

ROUEN, France (Reuters)—Two Scouts found $11,200 worth of gold coins in a ruined medieval abbey during a recent hike. Part of the money will go to the Benedictine monastic order which owned the abbey.

Novelist Dies In New York

NEW YORK (CP)—Charles Yale Harrison, novelist, publicist and former newspaper man who once lived in Montreal, died here Wednesday night. He was 55.

A veteran of the First World War, Harrison was a pacifist when he wrote a best-selling novel "Generals Die in Bed," in 1930. In later years he renounced pacifism.

Jubilee Expenses Rise 6½ Per Cent

Operating expenses of Royal Jubilee Hospital increased 6½ per cent during 1953 to $2,449,142, the institution's annual meeting learned last night.

The increase, reported honorary treasurer G. H. Stevens, was $121,962 above the previous year, but was not out of line with general increases in the hospital field of some 10 per cent for the past year.

The hospital, valued at about $4,000,000, admitted 10,249 patients.

The hospital suffered an operating loss of $34,109 during the year, 1¼ per cent of total expenses.

HOPE FOR GRANT

It is hoped that a grant from the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service may be received to meet the deficit.

During 1953, approximately 72.7 per cent of the hospital income was from the provincial government. The previous year it was 75 per cent.

The meeting re-elected as directors for two-year terms Mrs. E. Sheppard, J. L. Hobbs, G. H. Stevens and J. C. Thow.

Report of the directors by president James Thow warned that present isolation facilities are inadequate for any epidemic.

"The outstanding problem faced by your hospital during the year was an outbreak of poliomyelitis which sorely taxed all the resources of the hospital and occasioned a heavy drain upon our finances," he said.

One hundred and forty cases were admitted to the hospital, of whom 29 were treated in respirators, 15 had tracheotomies and 68 suffered from significant remaining paralysis, Mr. Thow said. There were five deaths.

The federal and provincial governments, Royal Canadian Navy and the B.C. Polio Fund were among organizations thanked for efforts to provide equipment.

Administrator George Masters described the past year as one of consolidation to offset possibilities of obsolescence in the future.

Hospital occupancy varies 60 to 70 patients each day, creating difficulty in economical planning.

For greater efficiency throughout the institution, the supervisory staff was increased and more lectures were delivered among the 800 employees.

Gay Showboat, Cocktail Bar Might Enhance Inner Harbor

BY THE JUDGE

Vancouver Island would be a wonderful place, if all the ideas which people are sending the Judge could be put into action.

Pleasant pools, cocktail bars and piers are some of the bright visions that rise from the "Improve Vancouver Island" contest letters.

There is no reason why we shouldn't have these things. No reason except zoning laws, narrow-minded pressure groups and stupid apathy.

However, you are now hearing The Judge's personal views, which don't count. What does count is today's winning letter. It appears below, followed by letters earning honorable mention.

Dear Judge:

What would a gay modern showboat in the Inner Harbor look like from the Causeway? All floodlighted on the dark water, where, after a hard day's sightseeing, these tourists we entice could relax in a cool, airy cocktail bar, and watch a smart non-American floor show. English, Canadian and French-Canadian, perhaps? And perhaps a smooth dance floor, with dreamy music.

EDIE.

(Good idea, Edie. But you would have to treat the fragrant Inner Harbor with airwick first.)

Dear Judge:

1. Have a proper swimming pool on Dallas Road.
2. Wake up, and have concessions in Beacon Hill Park.
3. Have a monkey island located by the latest pond extension . . .

Dear Judge:

Cordova Bay has a natural attractiveness . . . but as usual with local resorts there is nothing to do but stay on the beach. A short pier with promenade and rotunda, small cocktail lounge and a little dance floor, plus rainbow lighting to reflect on the water how's that?

EX-CORDOVAN.

(Good [illegible] for the danger that you might find yourself dancing with a seal).

Dear Judge:

What I would like to see around Victoria are beaches with clean sand and diving platforms, supervised by life guards, as they are in Vancouver . . .

GERTRUDE I. GRIEFF.

(Clean sand? No logs? No barnacles? It wouldn't seem like home.)

Dear Judge:

Millions are paid out each year, to construct highways throughout our picturesque Island. I suggest we spend a few dollars in apprehending the hoodlums who spoil the joys of touring by dumping their cartons of rubbish along the roadway . . . I would not impose a heavy fine . . . I would just have the irresponsible and undisciplined culprit taken out for a few hours after his workday, to the mess he had made, and let him gather up all his trash, and all the trash within 50 yards, . . . under supervision of the highway patrol.

LOW KEE DORT.

Jordan's Aid Offer Accepted by Israel In Bus Massacre

TEL AVIV (Reuters)—Israel on Friday accepted a Jordan offer to help track down terrorists who ambushed and murdered 11 persons Wednesday aboard a bus in southern Israel.

A government spokesman announced the offer came from Lieut.-Gen. John Glubb Pasha, British-born head of Jordan's Arab Legion. It was made through the Israeli-Jordan mixed armistice commission now investigating the incident.

The armistice commission was one of several established by the United Nations at the end of the 1948 Holy Land war to adjudicate frontier incidents between Israel and her Arab neighbors. Israel has threatened to take this bus incident before the UN on the grounds it represents a "warlike act" likely to endanger Middle East peace.

RESTRAINT URGED

Diplomatic quarters in London said Britain on Friday urged Israel and Jordan to exercise restraint over the potentially explosive incident. Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd summoned the ambassadors of the two countries in London to separate conferences at the Foreign Office.

The Israeli spokesman said Glubb Pasha has offered to send Jordan trackers to help investigators follow the attackers' trail. The ambushers machine-gunned a bus full of vacationers in the Negev desert about 12 miles from the Jordan border.

West Germany Clears Way For Strong Defense Army

BONN (AP)—West Germany took the final parliamentary step to legalize the raising of a 500,000-man army for Western defense. But not a man probably will get into uniform until France approves.

The Bundesrat, parliament's upper house, approved amendments to the constitution specifically saying it is legal for West Germany to join the six-power European Defense Community and to raise armed forces by drafting men over 18.

Six of the nine states whose ministers compose the Bundesrat approved the amendments, giving the necessary two-thirds majority.

The amendments already had been approved by the lower house, the Bundestag. Before becoming law they need the signature of President Theodor Heuss and approval of the three occupying Western Allies.

The important foreign affairs committee of the French National Assembly already has voiced its disapproval of the constitutional changes, urging the French high commissioner in Germany to veto them.

Oddity

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Charles V. McClellan, 22, of Tacoma, Wash., was charged Friday with moving in to film actor Robert Wagner's home while the actor was out of town and selling his radio and phonograph.

McClellan, who said he was a photo technican, described himself as a "great fan" of Wagner. Police found McLellan hiding under a bed when they went to the actor's home following a tip by his agent that a strange voice had answered the telephone at Wagner's residence.

Police said McClellan told them he entered the home through a window Sunday and was waiting for Wagner to return. When he ran out of money McClellan sold a radio and phonograph because they "didn't look as if they were being used," officers quoted him.

New Well Afire Near Edmonton

LEGAL, Alta. (CP)—Another Alberta oil well was given an explosive and fiery birth Friday.

Porous underground rock gave way under an oil contractor's tedious drilling and released to the surface a high-pressure jet of natural gas which exploded and sent a [illegible] roaring 150 feet into the air.

The early morning blast awakened residents of the bush-fringed prairie for 10 miles around. The top half of the 126-foot drilling rig was twisted crazily against its crumbled base. None of the drilling crew was injured.

Actual damage was limited to the $200,000 drilling rig being operated for Imperial Oil Limited, near this farming community 33 miles north of Edmonton. The loss through burning natural gas is believed to be about 7,000,000 cubic feet daily—enough to heat a modern eight-room house for more than 30 years—and it's expected to be about a week before the well can be capped.

The fire was believed to have started when the gas, followed up the slim well casing by spouting mud, came in contact with the hot running motors of the rig. It burned all day with a roar that could be heard for three miles.

Oil company officials said they expected to control the blaze by sinking a second hole at an angle close to the burning well and flooding it.

A PGE Terminus

NINE or more provincial legislatures have debated the purpose and prospects of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway since the province took over the line, with its initial $21,000,000 inscribed stock debt, from the contractors. Its fault then was that it had no urban terminus, and further that it came into contact with no other railway for an exchange of goods. Now, nearly 40 years and 130,000,000 tax dollars later, the PGE links with the Canadian National Railway at Prince George as a result of construction northward under the preceding regime, but it still has no terminus.

In contending that the PGE rails should be taken into Vancouver from Squamish, by whatever route may prove feasible, the Bennett administration is saying a practical thing, who ever may have advocated or opposed that course before. Without proper terminal connections in the Vancouver area the provincially owned line cannot be made to serve the purpose for which it was commenced—that was to open up the province and to bring goods to market from an untapped interior hinterland. What is more debateable about the current proposals is that the line be extended also at the north end into the Peace River district. Whatever may be the case in favor of doing that, the provision of a southern terminus should certainly come first.

For a comparatively small part of the suggested total of $60,000,000 the Pacific Great Eastern Railway might be made to bridge its existing southern gap. This would not only provide full terminal facilities for the handling of its goods, but also the interchange connections essential in modern rail service. The Peace River extension, with various suggested routes, has been the subject of experimental surveys in the past, but conditions have changed since then. More precise information as to route and cost under today's conditions would be warranted before the province committed itself to much further extension of the northern end of the line. Also, the Squamish link might require more money than expected. Action one stage at a time could be controlled.

Mechanical Vehicle Signals

THE Victoria police department's timely insistence that motorists make all the signals required by law has brought renewed protests from owners of English cars against the refusal of the provincial authorities to approve the type of signalling device with which they are equipped. Although the North American flasher type signals are legal in this province the illuminated mechanical arms, standard equipment on all British-made cars, are not. Most owners of British-made cars are aware of this but far from happy about it, especially those who have been fined for not making manual signals.

In the United Kingdom, where traffic regulation is certainly every bit as strict as it is here and the standard of driving much superior on the whole, the mechanical arm signal is not merely permitted; its installation and use are compulsory for all vehicles. The British traffic authorities with their reputation for sound judgment and thoroughness, would scarcely be likely to approve the mechanism if it had any serious defects. The fact that the wig-wag signal has been required over there for many years should be enough proof that it is safe and efficient.

Comparing the chief points of the two types of signal, many motorists here—not necessarily owners of British cars—incline to the view that the illuminated arm has distinct advantages over the flasher. The latter, while theoretically visible from all directions, is said to be largely useless in bright sunshine. Added to this defect the flashers are in positions below the normal gaze level of an overtaking driver, and in close traffic are often obscured completely. The arm-type signal on the other hand is both at the right level and in the position where one would look for signals. The argument that a left-turn signal may not be seen by the driver of another car on the right, and vice-versa, is irrelevant since he would not be able to see an ordinary hand signal either.

When all points are considered it is hard to understand why the superintendent should continue to withhold approval for one type of signal while giving it to another.

Nearing an End

EXCEPT for such few as may have relatives in Kenya the long drawn out operations against Mau Mau terrorists there perhaps have had only secondary interest. At this distance the impact of that disturbance is necessarily small. For British authorities however it has been a difficult period and for many of the white residents of Kenya one fraught with much peril. It has been native gangsterism in action with a vengeance.

This week's dispatches suggest a great improvement in the situation. The increasingly strong and effective measures taken by military and police are beginning to show results. Stern offensive action is whittling away at Mau Mau resistance and it looks as though the back of this terrorist uprising might be broken. At all events it is reported that peace overtures are being made and there is talk of a surrender parley at which the Mau Maus may capitulate. That events should have reached this stage may be taken as indication that the Mau Maus realize they have little option left but to give up.

Coincident with the field operations against these recalcitrant tribesmen has been a review of the administration structure in Kenya. The British colonial secretary has made several journeys to the colony capital, Nairobi, and the constitution of the government has been altered to permit of native participation. Without such evolution no peaceful development of Kenya could be secured with any degree of assurance, and in any case the step is in line with current British colonial practice, which aims to give more and more governing opportunities to native peoples in their charge when they are capable of undertaking them.

PLEASURE TO SERVE

Sir,—On behalf of the Victoria Municipal Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, I should like to thank you for the splendid publicity you have given us during the past year.

Your staff has been most co-operative at all times. Mrs. Wrotnowsky particularly, has been very kind and patient with us, and we are very grateful.

The space given to all Primary Chapter activities is also greatly appreciated. With many thanks.

GLADYS M. SMITH,
Acting Secretary, Victoria Municipal Chapter,
IODE, 872 Cowper Avenue.

PGE SQUAMISH LINK

Sir,—Re the PGE railway. It is hard to understand how a railway and highway can be accommodated on the terrain encountered between Vancouver and Squamish.

I spent four years at Britannia Beach between 1905 and 1909, and have been in that vicinity at times since. As according to late survey it is cheaper to bring a freight car from Squamish to Vancouver by barge than by rail.

Looking at it another way, it is about 300 miles between Vancouver and Prince Rupert, ports with rail-head connection, the only ones on Canada's west coast.

The head of Howe Sound is a perfect land-locked harbor and the federal government should be called upon to put in proper harbor facilities to make this another port where the harbor dues would be cheaper than at Vancouver.

With a good road perishable freight could be transferred and delivered to its destination by truck. Livestock could also be transported by truck.

There are approximately 5,000 people in the vicinity of Squamish who have been paying for the roads in B.C. without being able to use them. Is it not about time these people should have the privilege of using the same, and having a bus service which could meet trains?

C. E. HELIN,
3935 Cedar Hill Road, Victoria, B.C.

CAR INSURANCE

Sir,—From time to time we are advised in our newspapers and over the radio that the Saskatchewan Government has increased its auto insurance rates; one financial paper going so far as to say that those rates even now are "about on a par with those of B.C." If any of these have made actual comparisons it has not been this writer's good fortune to run across them.

Last week an old friend from Saskatchewan came along. His car is the same make as ours, same year, same model; fortunately he had his insurance policy and we had a chance to make accurate comparisons. His coverage is the same as ours.

Well, our premium was $66.10, and his $51.15, and in addition his contained a personal injury clause which is absent in the B.C. Policy.

This is not a plug for the Saskatchewan Government or government insurance, but it is a protest against misleading statements anywhere.

"I'll be glad to appear before this gentleman's committee"

First Governor

By FRANK KELLEY

MAYBE the first governor of Vancouver Island is in the way of becoming a forgotten man. At this stage in our history many British Columbians, not necessary of school age, know little or nothing of him. Writers of other years, like the late J. R. Anderson, who was familiar with Blanshard's story, his trials and tribulations, kept his memory alive by recalling what the 32-year-old Briton went through while attempting to represent his sovereign.

Blanshard was appointed in July, 1849, arrived in Victoria on March 10, 1850, and tendered his resignation in November of the same year; which meant he actually was governor for 18 months in all. Yet, those few months were the start of a new era for our Pacific Coast.

Sometimes the essence of such stories as Blanshard's will persist, especially about this time of year if one happens to be interested in the early story of Vancouver Island.

* * *

Blanshard's experiences in 1850 hereabouts were not particularly happy ones; nor has there been much in the way of commemoration pertaining to his arrival in Victoria or the period of service he spent in the role of governor. I remember only one gathering really promoted in connection with his memory. That was in March, 1929.

On that occasion principal figures at a "commemoration dinner" were Hon. Randolph Bruce and Hon. S. L. Howe. The former was the 18th lieutenant-governor of British Columbia, the latter provincial secretary. That affair, if memory serves me right, was made the occasion for the official return to Victoria of Blanshard's commission, presented to the government of B.C. It had gone to London with Blanshard and had been sold some 30 years ago in London to Sir L. Harmsworth, who forwarded it to Victoria.

* * *

I remember Lieutenant-Governor Bruce remarking that the records showed Blanshard's arrival and sojourn here were not marked with any pomp or ceremony; nor was he welcomed either cordially or loyally.

The governor also intimated that for various reasons he would rather be the 18th governor of B.C. than the first governor of Vancouver Island. Blanshard received no pay for his position. Nor had he house or home to live in on his arrival. HMS Driver was his official residence until such time as a house was built for him outside the fort.

According to the old records, HMS Driver, bearing Blanshard, arrived from Panama and dropped anchor in Victoria Harbor on March 10, 1850. On the following morning, although the population numbered only some 30 settlers in addition to the servants of the H.B. Company, it was still an important historical event when Commander Johnson of the ship-of-war read the Royal commission naming Richard Blanshard the first official governor of the Colony of Vancouver Island.

* * *

One has gathered from bits of the story picked up at random from various sources that the reading of that commission was received with mixed feelings by those who heard it. One can appreciate in some measure how its implied challenge was received by top officials of the fur company, and what it might mean to their fur-trading prerogatives and other long-practiced privileges as gentlemen adventurers.

In all the circumstances, it is probably not hard to understand why the course of events between the newly-appointed governor and the traders didn't run too smoothly in connection with this first definite attempt of the British government to establish proper authority over our Island.

Gerald Waring

Reports from Ottawa

CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell cracked the whip over his socialist MPs this week when he fired one of them from the House of Commons committee on banking and commerce.

Coldwell's dismissal of Ross Thatcher, the unorthodox socialist from Moose Jaw-Lake Centre, was both punishment for Thatcher's backsliding and a lesson to other CCFers, particularly those elected for the first time last August.

Thatcher's sin was that he couldn't stomach the CCF plan to nationalize the chartered banks which Coldwell had placed before the Commons in the form of a motion. The nationalization of the banks has been part of the CCF program since 1933. The party trots it out every 10 years, when the Bank Act is up in Parliament for revision.

Colin Cameron (CCF, Nanaimo, B.C.) and Alistair Stewart (CCF, Winnipeg North, Man.), both members of the banking committee, dutifully supported public ownership. So did Hazen Argue (CCF, Assiniboia, Sask.). But when Thatcher spoke, he merely criticized the banks for failure to make long-term loans to farmers. He didn't mention nationalization. And when Coldwell's motion came to a vote a few minutes later, he abstained from voting by leaving the chamber—an exodus which Liberal back benchers noted with a taunting chorus of "We want Thatcher."

* * *

Embarrassed by the defection, Coldwell hailed Thatcher into his office and talked to the young (37) truant like the schoolmaster he used to be. Upshot was that Thatcher was taken off the banking committee.

The committee thus lost the services of the CCF member best fitted by training and inclination to participate in its work. As a successful business man, the owner of a chain of hardware stores in Saskatchewan, Thatcher has practical knowledge of how banks operate. In addition, he had done his homework on general banking problems. He had hoped to make a worth-while contribution to the revision of the Bank Act.

Unfortunately for his relations with his CCF colleagues, his studies of banking had convinced him that nationalization of the chartered banks is impractical. He didn't say so in the Commons, out of deference for his leader and colleagues in the party. But he couldn't bring himself to vote for something he didn't believe in, so he walked out.

* * *

Spelled out, Thatcher's punishment could mean "Toe the socialist line, or else . . ."

Yet only two years ago Coldwell remonstrated with MPs of other parties who "felt bound by party discipline or by party loyalty either to remain silent or to vote not always according to dictates of their consciences."

What would Coldwell have done if Thatcher, instead of ducking the vote to avoid an open split, had cast his vote on nationalization in accordance with the dictate of his conscience?

Maybe no more than he did. Coldwell cannot have forgotten his 1952 comment, preserved in Hansard, which implies that unlike Grits, Tories and Socreds, the MPs of the CCF party are free to express their true views and vote the way they want.

Then how about booting Thatcher off the committee? Ah, the socialists say that's different. An MP appointed to represent his party on a committee, they say, should in fact reflect the majority opinion in his party which on nationalization of the banks Thatcher does not do.

Confidence in Future

(From The Toronto Telegram)

FROM one certainly in a position to speak authoritatively on industry, the statement by Rhys M Sale, president of Ford of Canada, that talk of depression is "sheer poppycock" should cause those disposed to preach blue ruin to think twice.

In the case of his own firm, the progress of which is indicative of Canada's future, a preliminary report for the past year disclosed that 1953 was the "most successful year in the company's history."

The going might be a little tougher, Mr. Sale stated, but, he added, "no one can persuade me that a depression or a recession, or anything more than a minor adjustment, lies just around the bend." And the answer to tougher going merely means "we will work a little harder."

When Canadians are afraid of a little harder work, the time will have arrived to fear depression. The only present danger, however, Mr. Sale declares, is that "blue ruin spreaders may get enough people to believe them to start a minor panic."

There has undoubtedly been talk of recession. Mr. Sale controverts it with the categorical statement that Canada's economy is not only booming but it is also "as sound as a bell." That sounds a note which should encourage confidence in the future of the country.

A State department official was telling a British friend that he had just bought his wife a new snow shovel. "I paid an extra 60 cents to get an aluminum one because it would be lighter for her to handle," the State department man said.

"That's the trouble with you Americans," the Englishman said. "You're always coddling your women."

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

MOST of us have somebody in our lives we don't want to speak to on the street. It may be someone we had a quarrel with a month, a year, or 10 years ago. How to pass these people without losing face is a problem. Occasionally, the person is one whom we take pleasure in snubbing deliberately, by staring straight at him with a frozen face, or by averting our gaze very haughtily.

But most of us are the kind who wish to let bygones be bygones, and it is a hard thing suddenly, in a crowded street, to come face to face with one of these you do not care any more to know. You have only a split second in which to act. If you act wrongly, if you look confused, and walk by with merely downcast eyes, you feel like kicking yourself for the next half hour, and the impression of having lost face, of humiliation, lingers in the memory.

The best trick is to look, with lively interest, at the person immediately behind the one you wish to snub. The instant you see that person, merely shift your eyes a couple of degrees, and with a sudden expression of interest, stare at the next pedestrian beyond. This is most confusing to the snubbee, for he or she sees you at your best, with the old familiar light of interest in your eyes, perhaps with half a smile on your face, instead of the confused, downcast or averted gaze which, as likely as not, flatters them into thinking you are aware of them.

There is, however, another category of people you have to pass on the street: those whom you are not sure you know or not. Maybe they are people you should recognize and who will be hurt if you fail to.

This trick of looking with interest at the next one behind them saves the day for you. They will feel you just missed seeing them. They will take no offense. And after you have gone half a block, you will suddenly recollect who the person was you dodged: maybe it was a distant cousin, or the chap you hand your income tax forms in to.

Wearing The Trousers

(From The Times, London)

WONDERFUL is the word we like to hear visitors applying to our policemen, but everyone who was well brought up on the right books for boys knows that it is equally applicable to Canadian "Mounties." Our youthful hearts went out to the would-be recruit to that manly force who told his examiners: "I ain't so hot at schooling, but, if you want a tough guy in a rough house, just call on me." When they called on him in the wintry snows—as surely they did, for the examiners must have passed him without more ado—he was able to come to the rescue looking his adventurous part in a coat of buffalo hide. In future, and according to report, his successors may be issued with a substitute—made of nylon. On first thoughts this is as though the guardsmen had the bearskins snatched off their heads and some chic creation designed in Paris put there instead.

Second thoughts make one wonder whether buffalo hide, as an adornment, may not, originally, have been the prerogative of squaws and definitely not worn by braves. At any rate, the history of costume is a tricky subject. Take trousers, which have just been defined in a Belgian court as "an accessory of male attire." A feminine witness clad in slacks who was judged to be guilty of contempt and not permitted to give evidence provoked this opinion. But, at the bar of history can it successfully be defended? Trousers early appear on the scene with an air of oddity, if not of effeminacy, about them. There is the evidence of Gibbon that the Emperor Tetricus and his son attracted as much attention as did even the glamorous Zenobia on a state occasion because they had chosen to deck themselves in "trowsers." Many little eastern girls are put into these accessories of male attire as soon as they can walk or earlier.

Our own great-grandparents, pictured as children, look very sweet and very far from boyish, dressed in muslin and frills and sashes—and trousers. Indeed, our more conservative great-grandfathers fought a spirited rearguard action to protect breeches for men against the attacking trouser. So stoutly did the clergy join in this defense that, to this day, bishops and other church dignitaries are loyal to the lost cause. So much may be pleaded by way of precedent in favor of the ladies wearing the trousers.

But, when it comes to practice, the case grows more delicate to present. Slacks on the beach and in the garden—yes; slacks, anywhere on the slimmest of slim young things—again, yes; slacks on matrons pushing wheeled baskets as they sally forth for the morning shopping—here a question mark hangs. Appeals to precedent are no use against mounting conviction that the Belgian court has passed a shrewd contemporary judgment on fashion.

Reed's Statement On Fatal Crash Read to Court

The story of his attempt to pass another vehicle before colliding head-on with an oncoming car was read in assize court yesterday from a state- [illegible] Charles Watson Reed from a hospital bed.

Reed is standing trial on a motor manslaughter charge in connection with the death of Mrs. Eileen Krebs, 47, of Salt Spring Island, who died from head injuries shortly after the crash.

The accident occurred October 24, near the airport on the Patricia Bay Highway. Mrs. Krebs was a rearseat passenger in a car driven by William K. Wilson.

SERIOUSLY HURT

Wilson, Bernhard Krebs, 65, and his 17-year-old daughter, Geraldine, were seriously hurt. Reed's wife is still in hospital.

Reed's lawyer, A. J. Byers, told the court he was calling no evidence for the defense. Mr. Justice Norman W. Whittaker adjourned the case until Monday.

Constable G. H. Kent, RCMP, Sidney, told the court he obtained the statement from the accused November 4, while he was still a patient in Rest Haven Hospital, Sidney.

The accused stated he was driving about 5 p.m. south of Sidney at about 40 miles an hour. He said he attempted to overtake a jeep ahead of him "on a long sweeping curve."

SPEEDED UP

He was in the middle of the road speeding up to pass the car when he saw an oncoming vehicle. The accused said he applied the brakes to get back behind the jeep but that his car skidded.

Reed stated it was too late to get ahead so he tried to get as close to the jeep as he could. "I hit the jeep and bounced off it into the path of the oncoming car," he added. Reed thought it was the left fenders of the cars that took the impact.

Previous evidence was to the effect that it was daylight when the mishap occurred, and the road surface was dry. The highway at that spot is 24 feet wide, and has a 10-foot shoulder on either side. There is a slight curve, but visibility is good for about 1,500 feet, testified a road engineer.

"There appeared to be cars up in the air," said Armand Joseph Pord, the jeep driver and the only eye-witness to the smash.

GLANCED AT MIRROR

He stated he glanced at his rear-view mirror after he felt something strike the back of his vehicle. Pord stated he heard a crash, and saw a cloud of dust behind him with what appeared to be cars thrown off the road surface into the air.

Pord said he neither heard a horn sound nor saw the Reed car coming up behind him. The right rear of his vehicle was slightly dented, some paint was scraped off, and a small piece of metal was missing.

Island Highway Work Due

More than eight miles of the Island Highway will be rebuilt this year, under Public Works Minister Gaglardi's proposed $27,500,000 highway program.

Some details of the program were given to members of the legislature by the minister yesterday.

Road work planned for Vancouver Island includes 5.83 miles on the Island Highway between Nanaimo and Ladysmith and 2.41 miles at Ladysmith townsite, a five-mile stretch between Nanaimo and Wellington, continued reconstruction of the Oyster River-Campbell River road and the Ganges road on Salt Spring Island, and improvements to the Rocky Point and Metchosin roads.

NEW BRIDGES

New bridges planned include an overpass and an underpass on the second section of Victoria's new outlet to the Island Highway.

About half of the $27,500,000 which the government plans to spend on roads, bridges and ferries will go to the Trans-Canada Highway. Since the federal government contributes half the cost of Trans-Canada work, the net cost to the province for the road program will be $19,000,000.

FOUR-LANE ROADS

Mr. Gaglardi told the house his government is thinking in terms of four-lane highways for the Lower Mainland.

Hospital visitors of the Canadian Red Cross regularly distribute cigarets, cards, stationery, shaving supplies and other comforts to hospitalized veterans.

Father of Dead Logger Ejected from Inquest

The father of David William Reynolds, killed Monday in a logging accident near Jordan River, was ejected from the inquest into his boy's death when he attempted to give evidence on working conditions in the area yesterday.

The jury later brought in a verdict that the 20-year-old logger died accidentally under the wheels of a truck at the Canadian Puget Sound Timber Company operations.

His head was crushed under the rear wheels of the truck, weighing about 17 tons, but none of the witnesses was able to tell how Reynolds, a second loader, got under the wheels.

They did not know whether he fell or fainted.

A dramatic scene developed when the father of the dead logger, Harold William Reynolds, 53, former hunting-fishing lodge operator in Ontario, told Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart he had a witness.

Douglas Norman Lewis, 20, who lived with the deceased, started to tell his story: "David told me that Jordan River was going to the dogs and was getting too high-balled . . ."

[illegible] his statement irrelevant.

The dead boy's father angrily yelled:

"An official of the logging company came to the residence of Mr. Lewis to advise him about my son's death and almost in the same breath offered him a job as head loader at Jordan River . . and if that's not evi- [illegible]

At this point Dr. Hart had an RCMP constable take the tearful father out of the room.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trade on the Winnipeg grain exchange Friday was highlighted by a revival of export interest in Canadian barley.

Trade reports indicated five cargoes of Canadian barley — about 2,000,000 bushels — were sold to Japan, while another cargo went to the Republic of Ireland.

There was no information available on overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat.

Lakehead prices for the top grades of class two, FWA and domestic wheat dropped one-eighth cent from Thursday except class two durums which were unchanged.

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybeans Friday raced up to a new high since 1948 in an otherwise steady grain market on the board of trade.

Among other cereals the new crop wheat futures made the best showing.

New Basis Set Up For Indexes

NEW YORK (AP)—A moderate advance Friday in the stock market sent prices up to a new high level for the year, in spite of late-profit-taking and some selling by short-term before the week end.

Friday the basis for computing new highs was changed to a 1954 basis from the previous 1953-54 base. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks Thursday gained 60 cents at $116.40, a level equal to the 1953-54 high mark established exactly a week before. Friday the average gained 30 cents at $116.70, a new 1954 high and the best average since June 2, 1930.

The indstrial component of the average was up 60 cents at a new high of $155.90, utilities were up 10 cents at a new high of $58.50, and the railroads declined 10 cents.

The market was quite broad with 1,201 issues traded, the highest total this year.

Trading was brisk at 1,930,000 shares, compared with 2,020,000 shares traded Thursday.

Three Groups Strong

TORONTO — Western oils, industrials and base metals were higher on Friday's stock market session and golds and uraniums were steady.

Western oils were slightly stronger at the close, but they dropped under profit-taking pressure from their forenoon peak. Canadian Devonian was the most actively traded issue with a 640,000-share volume as it slipped 27 cents.

Papers highlighted industrials as Abitibi and International Paper led upward. Refining oils, utilities and foods were little stronger in mixed trading and steels were lower.

Steep Rock, Noranda and East Sullivan led senior base metals higher.

Golds and uraniums were steady in light mixed trading.

Oils Featured

VANCOUVER—Western oils again featured trading on the Vancouver stock exchange Friday. Van-Tor sold 15,000 shares and closed with a four-cent advance at $.41. Other oils were mixed and mines were dull.

Activity Restricted

LONDON (Reuters) — The approach of the British budget day and weekend considerations tended to restrict activity on the London stock market Friday.

Long-dated and irredeemable British government stocks continued light easing.

Oils were mixed, with Anglo-Iranian and Canadian eagles a little off color, but with Royal Dutch a very firm market. Other internationals were mostly harder and Canadian Pacific, International Nickel and Brizalian Traction all registered fractional gains.

There was selective firmness in mining shares.

CPR Rate Appeal Blocked by Judge

OTTAWA (CP)—S supreme Court of Canada judge Friday rejected a Canadian Pacific Railway move to appeal a Board of Transport Commissioners decision against a new freight rate system that would result in higher rates.

Mr. Justice Robert Taschereau refused the company leave to appeal to the full court, throwing out a CPR claim that the board had failed to carry out its duties in the rate case.

He ruled the board exercised its discretion properly in a February 15 judgment.

In that judgment, the board declined to accept a CPR contention that it should set up a "base-rate of return" method of determining freight rates and simultaneously grant the railways and [illegible] general increase in rates.

Canada Withdraws Wheat Gift Protest

OTTAWA (CP) Trade Minister Howe Friday said Canada has withdrawn objections to the United States making a 500,000-ton gift of wheat to Japan.

He told Hazen Argue (CCF-Assiniboia) that the U.S. Notified Canada some weeks ago that it considered the food situation in Japan to be such that a gift of wheat and barley would be warranted.

At that time, he said Canada was negotiating with Japan and the U.S. was told that the objections might be removed during the course of the negotiations. Later, the negotiations reached a stage that Canada would sell a satisfactory amount to Japan during 1954 and 1955.

Later, he told John Diefenbaker (PC-Prince Albert) that Canada is holding her share of the export wheat market, although the volume moving is lower than last year.

He said Canada has objected at times when the U.S. informed her of plans to sell wheat on terms outside the International Wheat Agreement. The objections had been based on a section of the IWA permitting sales below the IWA price to countries in need.

Last Year's Grain Clogs Lake Ports

MONTREAL (CP)—A spokesman for the Great Lakes shipping industry says the "worst beginning" in Great Lakes navigation in 15 years is likely.

He predicted that two weeks after the opening of navigation half the bulk carriers will be idle. The Great Lakes fleet, including tankers, totals around 225 vessels.

The spokesman said 12 grain-laden ships wintered in Montreal. Harbor authorities have said they will be discharged by the start of the season. But there are 30 other ships reported between Montreal and Kingston, all earmarked for Montreal with their loads of grain and for which there is no space here.

The situation is said to be worse than last fall, just before the close of navigation, because virtually no grain has been sold for export.

The shipping spokesman said if the grain could move the Great Lakes would see one of their biggest seasons. There would then be enough cargo to keep ships busy.

Output Higher For Majority Of Minerals

OTTAWA (CP) — Production of 11 of Canada's 16 leading mineral products was higher during 1953 than the previous year with major increases in cement, clay products, iron ore, lead, natural gas, petroleum and silver.

The Bureau of Statistics reported Friday that cement production during 1953 rose to 22,246,189 barrels from 18,520,538 in 1952; gypsum to 3,837,292 tons from 3,590,783; iron ore to 6,452,815 tons from 5,271,849; lead to 195,791 tons from 168,842; natural gas to 101,086,216,000 cubic feet from 88,686,465,000; nickel to 143,016 tons from 140,559; petroleum to 80,902,282 barrels from 61,237,322.

Output of asbestos during 1953 dropped to 910,848 tons from 929,339 the previous year; coal to 15,893,094 tons from 17,579,002; copper to 253,653 tons from 258,038; gold to 4,068,516 fine ounces from 4,471,725 and salt to 953,235 tons from 971,903.

Gains Irregular

MONTREAL—Stock market prices were irregularly stronger at the close Friday. The trading was moderate.

General Dynamics gained 2¼ and Ford moved ahead 1¾.

Papers, utilities, banks, steels, beverages and senior oils were higher while senior metals, carriers and miscellaneous industrials were mixed.

Mines moved off in quiet trading. Four 10-cent losses were chalked up by Sullivan, Aconic, Barvue and Eastern Smelting.

In an otherwise stronger market in Western oils, Canadian Devonian dropped 32 cents to $2.22 in a turnover of 26,400 shares.

Textile Man Says Industry Could Topple

VANCOUVER (CP)—J. P. St. Jean, general sales manager of National Thread Ltd., says that the Canadian textile industry, which has spent $150,000,000 on plant expansion since 1946, could crumble completely unless the country's import tariff laws are changed.

Company Reports

John Inglis Co. Ltd. and its subsidary Englis Electric Co. Ltd. had a net loss of $440,933, compared with a $290,552 net profit in 1952. Heavy losses in defence contracts undertaken in 1951 and in consumer products manufacture in 1952 contributed to the loss, said H. L. Style, president. However, consumer products plant capacity has been expanded.

McColl-Frontenac Oil Company, Limited net profit increased in 1953 to $7,319,484, or $2.31 a common share from $5,922,795, or $2.18 a common share in 1952. Working capital at the end of 1953 was $25,617,175, an increase of $1,414,882 compared with 1952.

Spending Nears $5,000,000,000

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal spending in the fiscal year ending March 31, will be almost $5,000,000,000.

The government Friday sought parliamentary authority for the expenditure of $98,214,350 in addition to estimates of $1,433,466,000 already approved. Friday's supplementary estimates, tabled by Finance Minister Abbott, will be the last of the fiscal year.

They bring to $4,531,680,000 the amount of government spending in 1953-54 for which parliamentary authority is needed by way of estimates. The government will also have disbursed about $300,000,000 in old age security payments which are covered by a special tax.

The $4,531,680,000 figure in itself is a peacetime high. It compares with the all-time peak of $5,332,000,000 in the 1943-44 war year.

For the coming fiscal year that starts April 1, the government has tabled main estimates of $4,491,751,000, not including the old age security payments.

Largest item in the supplementary estimates tabled Friday is $37,758,894 to make up the year's operating loss of the agricultural prices support board.

Most of this loss was incurred as the result of the 1952 outbreak of foot and mouth disease among livestock in southern Saskatchewan. With Canadian meat barred from the U.S. market for a year, the federal government negotiated a deal with the United Kingdom and New Zealand that involved its buying Canadian beef and selling it at a loss to the United Kingdom.

Previous estimates had covered $32,000,000 of the deficit. Friday's cleans it up.

Another major item in the supplementary estimates was $5,000,000 toward a $10,000,000 contribution of Canadian grain for famine relief in Pakistan, previously announced. The other $5,000,000 comes under Canada's contribution to the Columbo Plan for aid to southern Asia.

A $2,370,700 item is provided to complete the year's payments on treasury subventions that assist the movement of Canadian coal to market. This makes a total of $10,669,000 for the year, compared with $8,032,000 in the 1952-53 period.

The estimates also disclosed that the government-owned Canadian National Steamships, a subsidiary of the Canadian National Railways, had a deficit of $386,000 for 1953. Provision was made to cover it. The company had a $31,576 deficit in 1952.

Archbishop of Canterbury To Visit Victoria in Fall

The Most Rev. Geoffrey Francis Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, the man who crowned Elizabeth Queen, will visit Victoria early in September.

MOST REV. GEOFFREY FRANCIS FISHER

"The Archbishop of Canterbury's tour of western Canada is a result of an invitation I extended to him more than two years ago," said the Right Rev. Harold E. Sexton, Archbishop of British Columbia, last night.

Archbishop Sexton said that since accepting the invitation to visit Vancouver and Victoria, the Archbishop of Canterbury had intimated that he would like to visit the principal city of every diocese through which he is to travel.

"Although his movements in Victoria have not yet been definitely settled," said Archbishop Sexton, "it is almost certain that he will consecrate the west front of Christ Church Cathedral on the morning of September 12."

Dr. Sexton said that the Archbishop would leave Winnipeg on September 2, spend a brief time at Brandon, Regina and Calgary and arrive in Vancouver on September 7.

"He will proceed directly to Victoria," said Archbishop Sexton," and will be the guest of Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Wallace at Government House."

Archbishop Sexton also said that the Archbishop of Canterbury would preach at a mass rally in Memorial Arena. He said that he would return to Vancouver on September 13 and would remain there until the evening of September 15.

Asked why he had extended the invitation to the primate of all England, Archbishop said that since he was a former priest of Canterbury, he was anxious for the Archbishop to see British Columbia.

"He is the most widely traveled of all the Archbishops of Canterbury," he said. "He has traveled all over the world."

Archbishop Sexton said that Mrs. Fisher would accompany the archbishop.

The archbishop is to stop at Winnipeg about September 23. Prior to arriving in Canada he is to attend an Anglican Congress in Minneapolis in August.

At the end of August he will leave for Regina, Banff, Calgary, Vancouver, Edmonton, Prince Albert and Saskatoon. He will preach at a special service in St. Matthew's Cathedral, Brandon.

OTTAWA (CP)—The government will not try to prevent red-baiting Senator Joseph McCarthy of the United States from making a speech in Toronto, April 20.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

It would surprise most city sports fans if they knew just how much city businessmen fork up each year for city sport in one way or another—sponsorships, donations, discounts and ticket purchases.

Sponsoring a club costs the most money and although there is a certain publicity return, most sponsors fully realize that their chances of getting value received is on the slim side and they do it mainly to give some group of youngsters a helping hand. There should be nothing but commendation for any sponsor but it does happen on occasion that the sponsor is placed in a rather invidious position.

This happened this basketball season to Gordie Scott and Ernie Peden. Approached before the season by Howie Tooby, who coached the Scott & Peden junior boys' club last season, about continuing their sponsorship, they finally agreed to at least see the team through the Island playdowns. They paid hall rentals for practice sessions and the club's expenses to Alberni for the last game of the Island final. The team won it without trouble and last Wednesday, Scott & Peden handed over $150 to pay the club's expenses to Vancouver to continue in the B.C. playdowns. Although they could expect to get some of this money back, it boosted their stake in the club this season to more than $200 and upwards of $500 for the past two seasons, which must be rated generous sponsorship.

It must have been somewhat disconcerting, then, on Thursday to find that Tooby had publicized that his club appeared to be financially unable to participate in the Dominion playdowns and for the second time, made a lot of the fact that the players had put up $10 each to post the $100 good faith bond required earlier in the season. Although not meant to do so, this implied that the sponsors were somewhat less than generous and both must have felt they would have been far better off had they not agreed to help before the season started.

It's all been settled now, with another $350 from the sponsors, but it was an unfortunate situation which could affect future sponsorships. Tooby has a fine club and is understandably anxious, as are his players, to get a chance at a Dominion championship but he should never have been party to putting his sponsors in a bad light, particularly just after receiving Vancouver expenses and the promise to let him know about the larger amount. Certainly, if his sponsors felt that the sum was a bit large, quite understandable, no one else could be expected to step in and put up the money in a hurry. It probably was never intended to be but it could be misconstrued as a mild form of blackmail.

Random Harvest

Victoria Tyees signed their second Mexican player yesterday when Jose Guerrero, a 23-year-old third-baseman, agreed to terms. Guerrero, who will join outfielder Armando Sanchez here in spring training next month, also played in the Mexican Coast Winter League and comes with a firm recommendation from the Drilling brothers, who saw him in action this winter . . . incidentally, the Tyees are stepping up their search for pitching help with the word that Portland Beavers are going to be short of this valuable commodity themselves this season. The Beavers will have to find replacements for star righthanders Larry Ward, whose elbow operation has put him on the sidelines, and Lyman Linde, who will remain in the east to be near his ailing wife, and chances that they will have much to offer are slender . . . Andy Bryant, a former student at Victoria High School, is the basketball coach of Prince George High School. His star is Ken Larsen, a six-foot seven-inch Negro lad who scores at least half his club's points in most games . . . return of Johnny Sain to the New York Yankees was no surprise to baseball writers, who have been predicting all along the valuable righthander would be back. That just about clinches the sixth in a row for Casey Stengel and his men . . . Nick Tomiuk, a rugged forward who played for Portland in the PCHL some seasons back, has been named leftwinger on the Northern Ontario Hockey Association all-star team after finishing second to veteran Ab DeMarco in the league scoring championship . . . Visalia of the California State League managed to sell 15,260 tickets, an average of one and a quarter for each resident, in an all-out one-day drive to give its baseball club a big financial start. Receipts totaled $11,445 and the Cubs should hang around for the season . . . forward Steve Wochey of the Buffalo Bisons and righthander Pete Wojey of the Brooklyn Dodgers were both born Wojciechowski but apparently realized early in life that would never get into many headlines . . . and in case you didn't know or had forgotten, like I did, Wally Hergesheimer, star rightwinger of the New York Rangers, scored 34 goals and passed for 39 in 70 games for San Francisco in the 1948-49 Pacific Coast Hockey League season.

Scrappy A's Deadlock B.C. Basketball Finals

ALBERNI, B.C. (CP)—British Columbia's senior men's basketball championship series was tied up at three games each Friday night as the hometown Athletics triumphed 60-58 over Vancouver Eilers before 1,400 fans here.

In a contest that was anybody's ball game all the way, the youthful Alberni team staved off a late Eilers rush to clutch onto their victory. Deciding game will be played here Saturday.

Alberni led 17-13 after a fast first quarter. Eilers came back to tie things up 30-30 at the half. Alberni's slight edge in the third period gave them a 47-45 edge going into the last session, but the favored Mainland champs came through with a burst in the fourth quarter.

FOULS HELP

Eilers held a one-point margin with five minutes to go, but Elmer Speidel's club took advantage of some late Vancouver fouls to wrap up the game at the free-throw line.

Both teams came out with a zone defense.

Big Bob Pickel, Eilers' high-scoring centre, shook loose for 23 points, slightly under his series average, to become high man for the night.

Other high scorers for Eilers were Nev Munro with 14 and Norm Watt with 12. Alberni was paced by young Doug Brinham with 17, while playing-coach Speidel potted 16.

Eilers were penalized for 17 fouls, Alberni for 14. Watt left the game with five fouls, while Alberni played the last few minutes without centre Joe Samarin, who also fouled out.

Eilers—Mitchell 14, Watt 12, Pickel 23, Munro 14, Forsythe 5, Moses, Ball, Chapman, Hindmarsh—58.

Cameraman Has No Friends Here

Cameraman Jim Ryan undertook to take some pictures at annual spring show of Victoria City Kennel Club at Crystal Garden last night and found a couple of varying receptions. On left, wire-haired Dachshund puppy, Bonshaw Nicotine, probably known as Smokey, shows complete boredom as picture is taken. However, same can hardly be said for English bulldog, Caernarvon Corsair, better known as Timmy. Ryan called for owner before he'd get within lens distance—and no wonder, if Timmy means what he appears to mean. Timmy, incidentally, won best-of-breed honors, something which Ryan said he couldn't understand.

Totems Back in Form To Thump Lord Byng

BY IAN GLENDAY

VANCOUVER—Victoria High Totems retained their chances for a fourth-place finish in the British Columbia high school basketball championships at UBC gym here Friday night, thumping Lord Byng High School of Vancouver, 33-19, with a brilliant display of control basketball.

Showing a complete reversal of form after Thursday's 54-38 setback at the hands of Trapp Tech which knocked them out of the running for the championship, Totems played possession basketball for the first half, holding Lord Byng, which finished second in the Lower Mainland tourney, to four points in the opening quarter and a foul shot in the second frame.

FOLLOW ORDERS

Coach Porky Andrews, who put his players through a 30-minute chalk talk before Friday's contest, laid down the pattern and his players followed it almost letter-perfect. Ed Peterson moved out of the bucket for most of the game and the ball was worked back and forth with lightning precision in an effort to crack Byng's tough zone defense.

And it worked to perfection. While the Vancouver team had trouble finding an opening for a clear shot, Totems waited for the breaks, running up a 9-4 lead at the end of the first quarter and holding a 12-5 at half-time after the lowest scoring period in this ninth annual four-day tournament.

Totems worked the score up to 18-11 in the third quarter before the losers switched to a man-to-man check and the Totems matched speed with speed from there to win easily.

PEDERSON LEADS

Lanky Ed Pederson, who must be rated a chance for an all-star berth, again led the Totems, scoring all of his 12 points in the last half. Waldo Skillings Jr. and Bill Abbott each got six. Tom English scored five as well as playing a standout defensive game, and ball-hawk Chummy Crabbe got four. Andrews used these five players for the full 24 minutes with Abbott a replacement for regular starter Buddy Rutherford.

Totems, who have never lost more than one game in the seven times they have competed for provincial honors, meet Penticton, which edged past West Vancouver, 37-33, Saturday with the winner taking fourth place and the loser seventh.

In other consolation games, Delta pulled a stunning upset in edging Duke of Connaught, 40-38, and Como Lake trimmed Kamloops, 38-25.

MISSION VS GLADSTONE

Meanwhile, Mission the tournament favorite, advanced to the final by whipping Trapp Tech, 50-40. In the other half of the draw Gladstone knocked off defending champion South Burnaby, 46-39, in what was regarded as a mild upset.

Totem scoring: Pederson 12, Crabbe 4, English 5, Skillings 6, Abbott 6, Den Perry, Bob Tomlinson, Art Chiko, Ken McCullough, Gary Fletcher, Ed Kowalyk. Total—33.

Sain Joins Yankees; Dodgers Look Good

New York Yankees, who have been having nothing but trouble in pre-season games so far, received a big boost yesterday when it was announced that veteran right-hander Johnny Sain had changed his mind about retiring and is already en route to the world champions' spring-training base at St. Petersburg.

Sain, who reportedly agreed to terms calling for $30,000, won 14 and lost seven games last season and was invaluable as a relief pitcher in addition to his starting chores.

Meanwhile, the Yankees lost their sixth in a row, and their second straight to the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday as Pee Wee Reese singled Billy Cox over in the ninth for a 2-1 win. It was the 10th straight win for the National League champions, who got one-hit pitching, a home run by Bob Cerv, from Don Newcombe and Joe Black, their ace colored right-handers, on whom their pennant hopes ride.

Bob Feller, Early Wynn and Ray Narleski all pitched well yesterday as the Cleveland Indians shaded the New York Giants in a well-played 2-1 game before 9,088 Las Vegas fans. The Giants, however, took solace from the continued fine pitching of Sal Maglie, who turned in three scoreless innings.

Officials of the Washington Senators said yesterday they had received a second warning at Winter Haven, Florida, to remove Negro players from their farm-team training base. The FBI is investigating to see if any federal law has been violated by the warnings.

Granny Gladstone hit a key ninth-inning single yesterday as Portland Beavers scored two runs in the ninth to tie Hollywood, 4-4. The game was abandoned after 11 innings without further scoring.

Philadelphia Athletics won their eighth game in nine yesterday by outslugging the Milwaukee Braves, 10-6, and got quite a boost from the pitching of Bobby Shantz. The little southpaw, who compiled a 24-7 record in 1952 before breaking a wrist, gave up only one run in five innings.

Jack Harshman, former Victoria firstbaseman who is attempting to make it a second time in the major leagues as a pitcher, held the St. Louis Cardinals to two runs in seven innings yesterday as Chicago White Sox took an easy 8-2 win by clobbering Vic Raschi, late Yankee ace.

Juniors Lose Opener

BY IAN GLENDAY

VANCOUVER—Scott & Peden, one of the best junior boys' teams to represent Victoria in years, face an uphill struggle in their quest for the British Columbia Junior Boys' basketball championship.

Pitted against a hustling Marpole team, the feedmen dropped a 62-49 decision in the first game of a two-game total-point series at King Edward High School gym here Friday night and must make up a 13-point deficit when the teams meet again Saturday night.

The winner of this series will host the Western Canada championships in a best-of-five game series opening March 29 and, although beaten decisively Friday night, Howie Tooby's charges can't be counted out.

BAD QUARTER

One bad quarter—the second—proved the downfall of the losers. Opening fast on the small court surface of King Ed, Scott & Peden held a 17-16 edge at the end of the first quarter but poor shooting, erratic passing and bad defensive play enabled Marpole to rack up 17 points against only four by the visitors.

Victoria picked up in the third quarter and whittled Marpole's lead to five points at 42-35 at one stage but couldn't get any closer. In the final minutes of the fourth quarter, Scott & Peden came back to within nine points but the winners tossed in five quick points to establish a sizeable lead.

Marpole, which appeared at its best when the going was fast, had Victoria baffled with its tight zone defense, which kept the losers shooting from well out. Scott & Peden's checking was poor and time and again, the winners would shake a man loose under the hoop to rack up two valuable points.

DOBBIE GETS 18

Big Bill Dobbie, tallest player on the floor, was well checked in the bucket although he picked up 18 points, 11 of them in the first quarter. However, the lanky redhead failed to get his share of the rebounds as Marpole controlled both backboards during the scrambly contest.

Ted Saunders added 11 points for the losers while Len Anderson played a solid two-way game. Lyle Levy, lanky Marpole centre, picked up 18 points and played the entire game.

Lineups follow:

Marpole—Art Bull 11, Lyle Graham, Tom Murphy 7, Lyle Levy 18, Mort Schloss 9, Logan Tait 8, Yat Yip 4, George Keeley 4, Ed Lorenz 3, Ed Malecki 2. Total—62.

Scott & Peden—Ted Saunders 11, Bill Dobbie 18, Roger Garden, Dick Sleep 1, Al Davies, Roger Windle, Dave Price 1, Al Snowsell 9, Ken Murray 3, Len Anderson 6. Total—49.

Seattle	69	22	40	7	205	240	49

Last night's scores: VICTORIA 3 at Edmonton 3. Seattle 2 at Vancouver 3.

Remaining games, tonight—VICTORIA at Saskatoon, Vancouver at New Westminster, Edmonton at Calgary. Tomorrow—New Westminster at Seattle.

It's not over yet but it looks more and more like the Victoria Cougars will meet Calgary Stampeders in the first round of the Western Hockey League playdowns.

The Cougars all but clinched fifth spot last night by getting a point in a 3-3 tie at Edmonton while the Vancouver Canucks moved close to the championship by edging past Seattle Bombers, 3-2.

DECIDE TONIGHT

Canucks are now two points ahead of Calgary Stampeders and first place will be decided tonight. If Canucks get either a win or a tie at New Westminster, they are in. But if they lose and the Stamps beat Edmonton, it will be Calgary on a superior goal average.

With two games left for the Royals and one for Cougars, the Islanders have a three-point bulge on the sixth-place New Westminster club, which needs three points in its two games to win fifth place on a better goals-for count.

Under playoff arrangements, the first and sixth-place clubs meet in a best-of-nine semi-final while the second and fifth and third and fourth-place clubs meet in best-of-seven quarter-finals. It should all be decided tonight although it's still possible for the Cougars to meet either the Stamps or Canucks in either semi-finals or quarter-finals.

CHECKING STARS

Cougars were never behind last night and only 47 seconds from winning it thanks to some clever checking, particularly by defenseman Ross Lowe and playing-coach Billy Reay, who is filling in on defense.

Edmonton-defenseman Hugh Coflin was a big help to the Coast club. He was out of position when Alex Kuzma opened the scoring with his 20th goal and in the penalty box each time when Doug Macauley, in the second period, and Kuzma again, in the third period, gave the Cougars a 3-1 lead.

But big Vic Stasiuk took over then and fired two goals to get the tie. The Cougars wound up with four wins and a tie in the eight games against the Flyers.

Tonight, the Cougars wind up regular play at Saskatoon and will either go to Calgary or hurry back to Vancouver for the playoff openers on Tuesday night. General-manager Fred Hutchinson announced in Victoria last night that defenseman Tony Schneider will miss tonight's game but should be ready for the playdowns. He sprained an ankle here Monday.

JUST COUSINS

At Vancouver, the Bombers made it tough by taking a 2-0 lead and holding Canucks scoreless for more than 32 minutes. But the Vancouver club, which won 12 and tied three of 16 games with the league trailers, wouldn't stay down and finally found the secret to Marcel Pelletier, who turned in a great game in goal by blocking 44 shots.

Indies Run Up 681 Runs; England at 130 for One

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (Reuters) — England, facing a record West Indies total of 681 for eight declared—the highest scored against England in 20 years—made a sound start of 130 for one wicket in their reply on the third day of the fourth test cricket match here.

West Indies, who lead by two wins to one in the best-of-five series, declared their first innings soon after lunch Friday. It was their best score in any Test, beating their 631 against India at New Delhi in 1948. Australia made 701 against England at the Oval, London, in 1934.

With Clyde Walcott scoring a century to go with centuries hit Thursday by Everton Weeks and Frank Worrell West Indies hammered the England bowling Friday. They added 135 runs in 110 minutes while losing three more wickets before closing the innings. Walcott's 124 included one six and 18 fours.

The English opening partnership of Len Hutton and Trevor Bailey put on 73 before Hutton was caught for 44. Bailey and Peter May took the total to 130 without further loss before stumps.

TACKLE BOX

BY JIM TANG

Headwaters of the Cowichan River, as usual, are the best bet for trout at the moment.

Queried last night, guide Art Hancock reported that fishing was very good. Hancock not only picked up seven trout between a pound and a half and two and a half pounds on Wednesday but also beached two fresh-run steelhead, six and seven pounds, to cap a fine day. Thursday, Hancock guided Vancouver's Art Christopher and Archie Heselding into their limits. All were taken on the popular Parmachene Hackle, rolled along the bottom.

Hancock also reported that a few fish are starting to surface and said he saw several caught yesterday on a partially-sunken No. 6 March Brown fly used by some fly rod experts.

* * *

Elsewhere, trout fishing has ranged only from fair to poor with the cold weather blamed for the lack of success. Roger Monteith gave Shawnigan Lake a whirl Wednesday but didn't raise a fish to his flies. The Game Department reports fishing here fair for trollers with the old standbys such as spinner and worm and flatfish recommended. Some have scored with orange-bodied flies (sunken). Bob Edwards put seven in his creel Sunday using an orange flatfish.

Dougan's probably rates as the best of the lakes in this area. The green Haggard fly, orange flatfish, No. 1 Stewart spoon and spinner and worm have all been used to catch fish. Ted Davis was among those who scored here.

Colquitz River, as usual in early season, has yielded some good-sized trout. The Game Department rates Thetis, Prospect and Elk Lakes as poor, and Grant, Kemp and Matheson Lakes and Salt Spring Island's Cusheon Lake as fair.

Up the Island, fishing is rated fair for steelhead in the Somass, Stamp and Ash Rivers in the Alberni Valley with Look Lake and McKenzie Slough fair for trout.

At Courtenay, all rivers are reported too low and clear and rain should help fishing, but the Oyster and the Tsolum are fair for both trout and steelhead while the Puntledge and Big Qualicum are given good ratings for steelhead and fair for trout. Not much fishing in district lakes as yet although some nice cutthroats have been taken from the top end of Comox Lake.

It's considered a bit early for good trout fishing in the Nanaimo district but steelhead are still being taken from the bigger rivers and Divers and Brannan Lakes are rated fair for trout trolling.

* * *

In tidal waters, the best fishing has been at the Goldstream end of Saanich Inlet, where husky bluebacks up to three pounds have been snapping up bucktail flies this week in encouraging style. Hall's Boathouse reports quite a number of limit catches in the past few days with the area between the Island and the Narrows recommended. Among those who had luck in the past few days were: J. Finlay and party, 14 on Wednesday and nine Thursday; Bob Harmon, limit both Wednesday and Thursday; J. Warbuton and A. White, limit catches Thursday; J. Thompson, limit Wednesday; Stan Williams, limit Wednesday.

Early morning fishing has generally been the best but fish have been taking throughout day with some scoring in late afternoon. Blue and white and green and white bucktail flies have been doing the best although catches have been made on most of the popular blueback lures.

Fishing picked up a bit Wednesday and Thursday in the Brentwood area according to Harry Pearl at the Anchorage Boathouse. Best catch reported here was made by Mr. and Mrs. George Heathfield, who boated 16 blues Wednesday using the yellow Kam Lure. A few four and five-pound springs have also been taken.

And off Oak Bay, Mike Rippingale continues to find big salmon on Wednesday afternoons. After getting two springs last week, he boated 18 and four-pounders last Wednesday.

FRANK LEAHY
Former football coach at Notre Dame, Frank Leahy was quoted Friday as saying he had turned down million-dollar contract to coach a Midwestern U.S. professional team at $100,000 per year for 10 years. Leahy, who retired because of ill health, said he would never coach again under any circumstances.

Huge Games Stadium Now Near Completion

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canada's largest stadium, a 25,537-seat horseshoe built for the British Empire Games here July 30-Aug. 7, will be completed in six weeks at Exhibition Park.

Of an ultimate capacity of 35,000, it occupies a natural oval gully once part of the first fairway of a golf course.

When the games are over and the 700 or so athletes spread out again around the world, football takes over. British Columbia Lions, 1954 entry in the Western Inter-Provincial Football Union, will play there.

COST $1,365,000

The super de luxe job, complete with night lighting for football, press, radio and television boxes, lounges, a turfed infield and a cinder track, will cost $1,365,000. There's a royal box too, for the Queen's representative.

It all works out to a cost of about $54 a seat.

Covered stands on the east and west put roofs over exactly 9,939 seats. The other 15,000 sit in the arc of the horseshoe, facing north. During an athletic lull, they will be able to look over ships moving through upper Burrard Inlet, or up to the mountains walling the north shore.

The concrete horseshoe snuggles down into the gully. Entrance tunnels, at ground level, open inside the stadium midway up the 40 rows of seats.

The oval forming the inner field is 175 yards long and 80 yards wide. Straightaways on both sides are exactly 93 yards before the track begins to curve. Chutes will be built to allow straight starts on such races as 100-yard dashes and 120-yard hurdles.

BARK TRACK

The track itself will be built of layers of California redwood bark and a mixture of clay and coke two feet deep.

Later, a standard Canadian football field, 110 by 65 yards, will fit perfectly into the infield with its 25-yard end zones.

Turf uprooted from the golf course has been carefully nurtured since construction began last September. It will be replaced in the infield and will be ready for javelin throwers and other athletes when the Empire Games start, just three months after the stadium is completed.

Thunderbird Bests Bruno On Mat Card

Colorful Chief Thunderbird evened his score with Con Bruno in the main event of the weekly professional wrestling card at Victoria Ballroom Thursday night, gaining a victory when his opponent was disqualified for using illegal tactics by referee Dave Pye.

Rematched after their hectic battle of the previous week, which ended with the disqualification of Thunderbird, the grapplers attracted a capacity crowd and were deadlocked at one fall each when Pye awarded the bout to the Saanich Indian.

In the semi-main event, Dave Jons captured the deciding fall from Bud Rattal and has been paired against Bruno next week.

Keith Hollett was pinned by Lou Stoberg after 27 minutes of wrestling in the one-fall opening bout.

Ski Report Good

Forbidden Plateau Lodge reports that skiing slopes have received a one-foot fall of fresh snow during the week and weather has been sunny and warm. The road to the lodge is open and no chains are required.

Giardello Impressive In Halting Willie Troy

NEW YORK (UP)—Joe Giardello of Philadelphia floored Willie Troy of New York three times Friday night and snapped Troy's winning streak at seven knockouts by scoring a technical kayo at 39 seconds of the seventh round in their nationally televised and broadcast middleweight fight at Madsion Square Garden.

Giardello, second-ranking middleweight contender, weighed 159 pounds as he registered his third consecutive knockout. Troy scaled 156½.

Referee Al Berl stopped the bout because Troy was staggering helplessly about the ring after being battered mercilessly in the seventh by six terrific left hooks to the head and two smashing rights.

Giardello, 23, left no doubt tonight that he is a knockout puncher and a dangerous contender for the 160-pound crown by flooring Troy three times with booming rights to the head. Troy went down twice in the first round and once in the second.

Giardelo's victory was witnessed by the Garden's largest crowd of the year, 8,155.

Best Plays To Wrap Up Festival

BY BERT BINNY

Except for the honor performances and the announcement of awards, the 14th annual Greater Victoria Schools Drama Festival was completed yesterday.

Once more, in the afternoon at Lampson Street School, the really young players were in evidence. These young people have about them an elfin air which age will take away from them. This is one of their greatest assets and, all this week, they have shown it in varying degrees. The first play yesterday afternoon, "Fairy Gold," presented by Lampson Street School, radiated that ephemeral, puckish quality. The sets and costumes helped indeed, as did the music and the choral work, but the cuing was smart and the voice projection fine. In particular, Susan Boyd as Queen Flora and Sandra Byrne as Silverwings were notable.

Next was "Hansel and Gretel," by Tolmie School. This version of the tale seemed rather ambitious. Choral selections were difficult—too difficult. One feels sure that the cast would have done much, much better in some other, easier show.

Doncaster School's "Make Him Smile" completed the afternoon program. Stuart Brown as Solomon Crossby did an excellent piece of work and the whole production was nothing if not colorful.

The adjudicator, Sydney Risk said he would like to have heard more volume in some of the voices and seen greater concentration by many of the players.

Before a packed house at Oak Bay Junior High School, Glenlyon School's "The Crystal Pool" opened the final evening of competition.

The setting was excellent and evoked immediate, spontaneous applause. Every word was clearly spoken, but there seemed to be a lack of what the theatre calls "business." Possibly because they played parts bordering on their natural state, Billy McElmoyle and Andrew Wade turned in particularly good performances.

"The Case of the Weird Sisters," presented by Oak Bay High School, was admirably done and admirably directed. There is a balance to be maintained in this play between drama and comedy. Great credit is due to Marilyn Cockburn, whose performance as Charlotte was strong and vital.

"The Devil Among the Skins," last play of the festival, brought competition to a close on a high standard of excellence.

The adjudicator found "The Crystal Pool" undeveloped in the writing. He praised the tempo and the setting and make-up but regretted the partial absence of conviction.

"The Case of the Weird Sisters," said Mr. Risk, showed "excellent team work" and the cast was very convincing. Carole McClellan as Bessie received special commendation.

The cast of "The Devil Among the Skins," said the adjudicator, certainly caught the right spirit and the characterizations were excellent.

Mr. Risk named the six plays he conisdered best. Three, to be on the honor program at Victoria High School tonight, are "Posies for the Potentate," by Brentwood Elementary School; "The Red Velvet Goat," by Belmont High School; "The Devil Among the Skins," by Oak Bay High School.

The other three plays among the best six were "Submerged," by Oak Bay High School, "Midsummer Night's Dream," by University School; "The Case of the Weird Sisters" by Oak Bay High School.

Two-Headed Baby Fights Attack of Pneumonia

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UP)—The frail side of Indiana's twin-headed baby was found Friday to be suffering from penumonia and the infant was placed in an oxygen tent as his condition rapidly deteriorated.

The three-month-old baby's mother, Mrs. Cecil Hartley, kept a weary vigil at Riley Hospital for Children where the infant was rushed after developing a [illegible] condition in its weaker head.

X-Rays showed penumonia on the left side, named Daniel Kaye, which physicians believe has one of the boy's three lungs. The baby's condition was described as "fair" when he was brought to the hospital, but by late afternoon doctors said the child was "critical."

The baby, born December 12, became ill Monday after recovering from colds in each head.

Dr. Joseph Elbert, the family physician, said he was called to the Hartley home at Petersburg when Daniel's breatning became labored. He administered oxygen to the left head, which has been pale since birth, and Daniel revived in about 30 minutes.

The stronger half, Donald Ray, has done "wonderfully" through it all, Elbert said.

"It's unwise to pay too much, but it's unwise to pay too little. When you pay too much you lose a little money, that is all. When you pay too little, you sometimes lose everything, because the thing you bought was incapable of doing the thing you bought it to do so. The common law of business balance prohibits paying a little and getting a lot . . . it can't be done. If you deal with the lowest bidder, it's well to add something for the risk you run. VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, SATURDAY, MARCH 20, 1954

SECOND NEWS SECTION

Big Year Ahead May Be Busiest For Power Body

Incoming members of the three-man B.C. Power Commission will have a man-sized job on their hands directing a gigantic work schedule for the year starting April 1.

The three sitting members are leaving their posts as the power commission enters its 10th year of operation, a year which gives every indication of being the biggest yet.

While the government hasn't yet named the new commissioners an announcement is expected soon so that the wheels of the big publicly owned utility can keep turning in the direction of further progress.

[illegible] the commission has expanded its services [illegible] and efficiently to meet the constant postwar growth of the province. This expansion is continuing.

Among major projects scheduled for completion by the end of this calendar year is the new hydro plant on the Puntledge River near Courtenay.

COURTENAY PLANT

In its first stage the Puntledge project will consist of a [illegible] 24,000-horsepower capacity. It will be fed by a four-mile woodstave and steel pipe line. The development will tie in with the commission's 100,000-horsepower Vancouver Island transmission system.

The new commission will decide whether Buttle Lake, in Strathcona Park, is to be dammed as a water storage basin for additional power for the John Hart power development on Campbell River.

Conservationists, stressing the value of preserving the lake in its natural state as a playground for Island residents and tourists, have opposed this plan for some three years.

The old commission was authorized by the government to make tests at the outlet of Buttle Lake to determine the feasibility of building a dam. These tests completed last fall reportedly showed construction of the dam is possible.

Results of the tests will be available to the new commission and it will make its own decision.

Another big [illegible] plant expected to reach completion in January, 1955, is to be built on the Spillimacheen River in the Upper Columbia Valley. This project calls for construction of an intake dam to divert water into a 1,800-foot tunnel seven feet in diameter which will carry it to a powerhouse to house three generating units. One is a new 3,000-horsepower unit; the other two, each 1,250 horsepower, were formerly used in the now dismantled Partners [illegible] which once served [illegible].

The commission also plans a further sizable program of rural electrification in the coming year in most of its 27 power districts throughout the province.

Island Fair Dates Set at Saanichton

Island Fair dates were set yesterday at the annual meeting of the B.C. Fairs Association held at Saanichton and attended by more than 40 delegates from all over British Columbia.

The North and South Saanich Agricultural Society Fair at Saanichton will be held September 5 and 6. Other Island fair dates are: Courtenay, September 3 and 4; Cobble Hill, September 8; Alberni, September 9, 10 and 11; Coombs, September 10 and 11; Luxton, September 11; Sooke, September 11; Lasqueti Island, September 11; Nanaimo, September 16, 17 and 18; Ladysmith, September 22 and 23, and Duncan, September 9, 10 and 11.

Last year British Columbia had one class A fair at Vancouver and three class B fairs at Duncan, Chilliwack and Armstrong.

In addition to these fairs there were [illegible] other fairs held on Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands, four more than in 1952.

NEW OFFICERS

I. Warlop of the Vancouver Horticultural Association was named new president of the B.C. Fair Association. Amos Gabbard of Mission was named vice-president and L. W. Johnson of the provincial department of agriculture secretary-treasurer.

New directors are H. German of Chilliwack, W. H. Dunn of Cobble Hill, H. Tuck of Nanaimo, J. W. Reid of Abbotsford and Mrs. R. Tallow of Squamish.

Next annual meeting of the association will be in Chilliwack.

It was decided to ask the provincial and federal government departments of agriculture to recognize rabbit sections for [illegible].

POPULARITY GROWS

The increasing demand and gain in popularity of rabbit meat and the fact that more and more small acreage farmers are engaging in rabbit rearing as a sideline and for venture was one of the reasons given for recognition of rabbit sections.

The association will ask the federal government for assistance to poultry, cattle and sheep [illegible] on the same basis as other [illegible].

Consideration was given to the purchase of giveaway rides and concession games to be rented out to various fairs but it was decided that it would be too big a proposition for the fair association to handle.

Chamber Favors Single Appeal

A united mercy appeal that would join such agencies as the Red Cross and Salvation Army with the Community Chest for fund-raising purposes was endorsed yesterday by directors of Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber's tourist trade group will meet Monday to consider the navy's plan to use part of Saanich Inlet for a bombing and torpedo range. The group will consider whether or not a protest should be lodged.

Meeting at the Empress Hotel the chamber's directors praised Victoria policemen's new caps and heard plans to beautify Trounce Alley, hold a Daffodil Day in Victoria and drop daffodils on Calgary and Edmonton.

Questioning the united charitable appeal, Aubrey Kent suggested that people might give less to a one-shot drive than they would to a number of separate campaigns.

Other organizations which directors felt might be persuaded to join a united campaign included the Conquer Cancer, polio and cerebral palsy appeals.

Tourist trade group chairman Conway Parrott mentioned that a homing torpedo which sought out boats might be tested in the inlet.

The matter was left in the hands of the tourist committee after a director had warned of the danger of breaching national security.

Beside each plate at the luncheon was a daffodil enclosed in the light cardboard parachute that will be used when the spring blossoms are dropped by plane on Calgary and Edmonton during the chamber's goodwill tour of the Prairie cities, April 7 to 10.

AERODYNAMICS RIGHT

Mr. Parrott reported that tests had shown the aerodynamic qualities of daffodil and card to be just right.

"They'll land where we want them to land," he said.

The colored parachutes bear a message which says in part: "Greeting from evergreen Victoria. We extend to you a friendly invitation to visit with us where flowers bloom the year round and living on the shores of the Pacific is more than pleasant."

Thirty-four chamber members have signed up for the airborne goodwill tour. There are eight more vacancies. The program includes visits to Calgary and Edmonton industries.

On Victoria's own Daffodil Day, April 3, merchants will give away daffodil boutonnieres. Miss Daffodil, Jean Spedding will appear in stores clad in spring regalia. Victoria Girls' Drill Team will meet incoming boats, planes, trains and buses, and give passengers a daffodil each.

Trounce Alley development plans include flowers and an arch bearing heraldic shields, Mr. Parrott said.

Only Best for Fair Delegates

Protest Made On Mail Service

—AROUND TOWN—

Cancellation of direct mail service between Victoria and Washington state points drew a protest yesterday from directors of Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

They will ask the postmaster-general [illegible] Fulton, MP for Victoria, to look into the matter.

George I. Warren, managing secretary of Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, pointed out that direct mail between Victoria and Port Angeles had been cut off December 1.

Direct mail between Victoria and Seattle had been cut off January 1.

"Port Angeles is only 18 miles away, but a letter takes two or three days to get there," he added.

Advertising sign companies were requested by the works committee yesterday to get the stamp of approval of the Canadian Standards Association for plastic street signs now viewed as a hazard.

The companies had asked the city to amend the by-law to permit erection of the signs.

The works committee held that the companies should show proof of the degree of fire resistance of plastic signs before the by-law is changed.

A formal resolution was framed by the public works committee yesterday calling on the provincial and federal governments for assistance in reconstruction of the Johnson Street and Point Ellice bridges.

Secret Talk Expected On Procedure By-Law

Members of city council are expected to discuss Mayor Claude Harrison's new city hall procedure by-law behind the closed doors of the mayor's office Monday afternoon at an informal and private meeting.

Word of the forthcoming meeting circulated yesterday through City Hall though an official of the mayor's office denied any knowledge of the report, giving rise to speculation that the principal item of discussion would be the by-law.

The new by-law, slated to reach council formally on March 25, now appears likely to get an informal going-over [illegible] of time out of public view.

The proposed by-law would make deliberations of council committees secret. It would give the mayor firmer control over letters and petitions to city council to the point where he could "dispose" of those considered "defamatory" or "unusable." It would require aldermen to submit enquiries about public business to the mayor and city manager in writing.

PERSUASIVE POWER

It is believed that the mayor on Monday will devote all his powers of persuasion developed in some 40 years as city prosecutor to the task of convincing aldermen that the by-law is really not as bad as it appears.

Meanwhile, responsible organizations and individual citizens have registered strong disapproval of the by-law, declaring that existing procedures should be maintained so that there can be no possibility of a loss of the democratic right to know how elected representatives are facing the problems of the public's business.

One city businessman has appealed to citizens to shower members of council with letters protesting adoption of the by-law in its present form.

MASS RALLY SET

The Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (AFL-TLC) is planning a mass rally of organizations holding views against the secrecy procedure proposals. As an alternative the labor body may establish a picket line at City Hall.

The Victoria Labor Council (CCL) has supported the mass meeting proposal and officials said the members would do everything possible to ensure the defeat next December of aldermen who support secrecy proposals.

At least one bad feature is contained in Mayor Harrison's proposal according to Ald. Frank Mulliner, senior member of city council.

The alderman who made the statement during a meeting of the public works committee yesterday did not enlarge on his view.

OBJECTION READ

Discussion followed receipt of a letter from R. A. Clarke, Sr., objecting that an earlier letter he sent to council was not read at a council meeting but referred directly to the works committee.

Ald. Milford Mooney said provision already exists for referring letters directly to committees and added that the new procedure by-law would not change this.

"As a matter of fact," he continued, "I can't see where there's hardly any change."

"Oh yes there is," declared Alderman Mulliner. "There are four or five—one bad."

Ald. Robert Macmillan agreed and told Alderman Mooney he could show him where changes exist between the present and the proposed procedure by-laws.

CHAMBER SILENT

Directors of Victoria Chamber of Commerce want to know more about the by-law before they express an opinion on it.

Yesterday they turned down a motion by former alderman Aubrey Kent demanding that the chamber go on record as opposing the new by-law.

Instead the chamber's civic affairs group will be asked to study it further.

Discussion at the meeting of the chamber of commerce directors was confined to the fate of correspondence.

Mr. Kent of the chamber's civic affairs group moved that the chamber "go on record as emphatically opposed to the by-law in its present form and ask that it be revised or withdrawn."

F. W. Arnott said he had confidence in the aldermen [illegible] to decide the merits of the by-law. The directors of the chamber had not seen the by-law itself yet, he said. He advised them to [illegible] until they knew its exact contents.

"It's just a question of internal organization," said T. G. Denny. "However there should be no secrecy."

G. F. "Pat" Dunn moved an amendment to Mr. Kent's motion. The amendment asked that the question be referred back to the chamber's civic affairs group for detailed study.

Directors passed the amendment and the motion was automatically lost. City manager Cecil Wyatt abstained from voting.

Mr. Denny said the action of the directors did not mean they had lost interest in the subject.

Toothsome Threesome

Teeth were the topic, naturally, wherever B.C. Dental Association members and their guests foregathered at the Empress Hotel convention yesterday. Above, examining colored plates of great mouthfuls of misery are Dr. C. M. Whitworth, newly-elected president of the association, left; Dr. R. D. Fisher, guest speaker, centre, and Dr. M. M. Nacht, new treasurer. Convention concludes today.

Your Income Tax

Choice Allowed On Lump Sums

BY GORDON HOLMS
Member of the Institute of Chartered Accountants

A single lump sum of money received by a taxpayer can make the tax impost unusually heavy, and the income tax act allows some alleviation in many of these cases.

Examples are payment of a lump sum to employees on retirement, withdrawal from pension and superannuation schemes and payments made as death benefits.

In Victoria, where there are many hundreds of women civil servants, the case can often arise of a girl withdrawing her superannuation payments in preparation for marriage. Teachers also make a considerable total in this category.

The recipient in these cases has the alternative of adding it to income in the year of receipt, or excluding it from current taxable income and paying at a special rate.

Retiring allowance, however, is taxable income and tax must be paid on it under one of the two alternatives.

Generally, in most cases where the party already owes some tax from normal earnings, the second alternative is the best.

However, the safe way is to compute your tax both ways and use the alternative that costs less.

It should be noted that if a taxpayer was the recipient of such a payment and has elected to have it taxed on the average rate basis, then this form of income while subject to tax is not income which can affect their status as a spouse or dependent. This is one of the [illegible] cases where income does not affect personal exemptions.

This is how the second alternative is worked.

Take your income for each of the three previous years and add them together. Then take the income tax paid for the three previous years and find the total of these.

The tax total will be, say, 6 per cent or 8 per cent of the income.

Whatever the percentage works out to be, that is the basis of calculation. Thus, if the lump sum you received is $1000 and the percentage of tax for the three previous years is 6 per cent, you would owe $60 in tax.

The best thing about the European films being shown on TV here is that they have returned us to reality. The performers are artists in their own right.

American films, including those made for TV, feature players who are a bunch of phonies. They get by with a little ability and a host of gimmicks.

The word "stylist" has been coined to describe a performer with a minimum of talent and a maximum of showmanship. Frank Sinatra's screaming bobby-soxers and Frankie Laine's wails are examples of devices which helped put these performers over.

With women stars, gimmicks which can be sewn into costumes have helped insure success too.

But the master of the "gimmick" is that pompadored would-be Paderewski named Wladziu Valentino Liberace, seen on local TV screens three times each week.

If you don't know about Liberace, you must have been buried with the gold at Fort Knox. He has mushroomed into prominence like an atomic cloud. He now appears on 150 stations in Canada and the United States, and he is no stranger in the paradise of Hawaii.

Liberace never plays without lighted candles on the piano. The show is a masterpiece of technical production: shadows surround him and men with violins float in the gloom behind him. He chats, he vocalizes and he displays his dimples.

When he flashes that Liberace smile, tooth paste company profits zoom. Talcum powder companies do a little business too. Liberace sprinkles grey powder in his hair before facing the TV cameras.

The lad can play the piano but there are plenty of better pianists around. It is the gimmicks which put Liberace over.

Did you hear him when he played to a soldier overseas and read a letter from the lad's wife? In the midst of the sentimentality he turned right around and winked at the camera twice.

That is the difference between Liberace and the European film stars. When they play a part on TV their heart and soul goes into it.

Campbell River Man Admits Theft of Boat from Victoria

A man who is already serving a [illegible] sentence for obtaining money by false pretenses and is awaiting trial at Nanaimo on a manslaughter charge pleaded guilty to two charges in city police court yesterday.

Wilfred Ernest Couth, 28, of Campbell River admitted taking the fishing boat Linjon to use as a getaway boat after he had made false offers to owner Harvey Gray to buy the boat for around $1,500.

SAW PAWNED

He also admitted renting a power saw from Jack Newton and pawning it in a Vancouver pawn shop for $30.

He had the pawn ticket with him when arrested by Powell River RCMP.

Magistrate H. C. Hall remanded him until Monday for sentence on the two Victoria charges.

Couth has a criminal record dating back to May, 1950, that includes theft, abduction, [illegible] obtaining a car by false pretenses and obtaining money by false pretenses.

He took the Linjon from Victoria February [illegible] to escape Island police who sought him following the traffic death of Arthur [illegible], 30, of Alert Bay.

TO STAND TRIAL

In Ladysmith Thursday he was committed for trial on a manslaughter charge resulting from the death of [illegible] who is alleged to have been a passenger in Couth's car when it skidded off the road and caused the fatality.

Couth was arrested in Powell River and the boat was found at Vancouver stripped of fittings and with a damaged engine.

James A. Ross, 40, of Eastern Hotel, was remanded until Monday for preliminary hearing on a possession of narcotics charge. George Gregory, crown prose[illegible] general's department had directed that Ross be tried in a higher court by jury.

He was arrested in a rough and tumble in the Coach Lines bus depot and in the scramble bit an RCMP officer's finger as the officer searched his mouth for narcotics.

PLEA OF GUILTY

William Robert Arnott, 48, no fixed address, pleaded guilty to passing a worthless cheque for $20 and receiving cash for it. He was remanded until Tuesday for sentence.

Arnott has had previous convictions of obtaining money by false pretenses in January 1953 and January 1954.

A 70-year-old pensioner pleaded guilty to stealing a tin of tobacco from the Hudson's Bay Company.

"I'd like to settle for it at the end of the month," he told the magistrate. "I am a pensioner. I don't want to lose my pension," he pleaded.

He explained: "I don't know how to act in court. I have never been in court before."

SHOULD KNOW BETTER

"You should know better at your age," the magistrate told him.

"I think when a person gets out of work he walks around so much he turns into a kind of kleptomaniac," the old pensioner explained.

"I will suspend sentence," Magistrate Hall decided.

Eugene A. Valcourt, Glen Lake, said he had the heater on and the windows closed in his car. He fell asleep at the wheel and crashed into a parked car on Catherine Street doing $700 damage to each car.

He was fined $35 or five days on a careless driving charge and had his license suspended.

ERROR ADMITTED

Arthur E. Sharp, 2450 Quadra Street, admitted he made an error in judgment when he pulled into a line of traffic causing a collision. "I never had anything like this happen before. I hesitated too long," he said.

He was fined $35 or five days on a careless driving charge.

Ronald Gleaves, 316 Montreal Street, had a new angle for not answering a summons. "The children must have used the summons for writing on," he said. He was fined $2.50 for not answering a summons and $2.50 for overparking.

Florence M. Haigh was remanded until Monday on a charge of parking over the hour. She pleaded not guilty.

FINED $15

Charles Walter Williams, 1255 Balmoral, drove through a stop when occupied zone when three boys were in the crosswalk. He had two previous driving convictions and was fined $15 or three days. On a similar charge but when only one pedestrian was in the crosswalk, Alexander B. Sin[illegible], 1860 B[illegible] Place, was fined $10 or three days.

In Oak Bay Court the general hour burglar Raymond Stephen F[illegible] was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary on each of two charges of breaking, entering and theft. The sentences will run concurrently with five other three-year sentences imposed in Victoria and Saanich police courts. On Monday he will be sentenced for a robbery in Esquimalt.

CARELESS DRIVER

In Victoria RCMP court Magistrate A. L. Thomas fined James S. Fulton of Victoria $25 and $3.50 costs on a careless driving charge resulting from a charge laid by Sidney RCMP.

Joseph Hitchen and John Lambert Newton, both of Victoria, were caught speeding at Chemainus and were fined $15 and $3.50 costs.

Funeral Set Today For Thomas Watson

A resident of Victoria for more than 65 years, Thomas Watson of 2837 Scott Street, will be buried today at 3 p.m. from Hayward's chapel.

Born in Kirkwall, Ontario, in 1866, he came to Victoria 22 years later. Mr. Watson was chief engineer for J. Sayward Lumber Company for several years, and later superintendent for Canadian Pugent Sound Lumber Company and Cameron Interests. He retired in 1945.

He was one of the Victorians who witnessed the arrival of the first CPR train at Vancouver.

Mr. Watson died in St. Joseph's Hospital Wednesday.

He is survived by his widow, one daughter, Mrs. E. Christensen of Seattle, and five sons, Elmer, Robert and Harold of Victoria, Mac of Bellingham, and Alec of Port Huron, Michigan.

Civil Defense Talks Set in Metchosin

A civil defense meeting will be held in the parish hall, Metchosin, on Monday at 8 p.m.

Dentists Back Fluoridation

Opposition to fluoridation of public drinking water is beyond the understanding of dentists, spokesmen at the B.C. Dental Association convention said yesterday.

"It's like trying to give $10 bills away," Dr. Richard Cline said. "People just don't believe you mean it."

Dr. Cline, who is attending the convention from Vancouver, will address the convention this morning on the arguments for and against the use of fluorine in drinking water.

MUCH OPPOSITION

"Of course, there is a great deal of opposition to this 'adulteration' of public drinking water by self-styled experts," he said, "but they are, for the most part, a long way off base."

One of the arguments presented by the anti-fluorine element is regarded as something of a joke by members of the dental profession.

"There is a pamphlet now being circulated that says the children of Russia were given fluorine in about 1917 to reduce their will power and make them amenable to the coming dictatorship."

Trying to argue against that type of propaganda is almost impossible, he said.

PLEBISCITES DEFEATED

Plebiscites on fluoridation are often defeated by small but determined groups of people, he said.

Fluoridation will have its greatest effect on children between the ages of one and eight, he added.

"Studies across Canada show that four out of five of our six-year-old children have already suffered from dental decay," he said.

"But in areas where fluoridation has been tried we have shown a 60 per cent drop in tooth decay over a period of four or five years in children of a similar age."

In 1945 Brantford, Ont., added 1.0 to 1.2 parts of fluoride per million gallons to its drinking water. Each year since then people drinking the water have had less tooth decay than the year before, he said.

One of the biggest objections to fluoridation by the people campaigning against it is the "forced medication" aspect, he said.

Dr. Cline also has an answer for the critics who say that fluorine is poisonous.

"To become poisoned by fluorine in drinking water you would have to drink 450 glasses of water at one sitting," he said.

To get this effect, you would have to add four tons of fluorine to one million gallons of water.

Endorsation of fluoridation comes from all dental associations in North America.

Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne sentenced Gash to hang June 22. He said he would forward the jury's "strongest recommendation for mercy" to Justice Minister Stewart Garson.

The petition will also be sent to Mr. Garson. Jack Pope, 70, a neighbor, will lead the drive for signatures.

Redistribution Work Begins

The legislature's special committee on redistribution split up into three sub-committees Friday to begin work on redrawing the boundaries of the province's electoral districts.

A foot-thick stack of information on the 41 present ridings which elect 48 members will be divided among the three groups for study. The information has [illegible] sent out last fall by Chief Electoral Officer Fred Hurley.

Each subcommittee will deal with a specific region.

Members of the Vancouver Island subcommittees are W. N. Chant (SC, Victoria), Dr. Larry Giovando (C, Nanaimo) and William Moore, (CCF, Comox).

On the lower mainland subcommittee are Thomas Bate (SC, Vancouver Point Grey), Arthur Laing (L, Vancouver Point Grey) and Arthur Turner (CCF, Vancouver East).

The Interior members are Provincial Secretary Wesley Black (SC, Nelson-Creston), J. Alan Reid (SC, Salmon Arm), Rev. C. W. Parker (SC, Peace River) and Leo Nimsick (CCF, Cranbrook).

The committee reaffirmed its decision to split up the multi-member ridings of Victoria (three seats), Vancouver Point Grey (three) and Vancouver East, Centre and Burrard (two each).

It will try to add no more than four new seats to the present 48.

The legislature Friday wound up 24 days of speechmaking by passing without a dissenting vote, the formal motion that "Mr. Speaker do now leave the chair for the House to go into committee of supply."

Premier Bennett later said it was "history-making" that the House should give unanimous approval to his budget after the Liberals had proposed a non-confidence motion (which was ruled out of order).

The job now before the House [illegible] of 128 separate votes totaling $201,000,000 for the operation of the public services in the fiscal year starting April 1.

The House took its first nibble out of the 217-page book of estimates Friday afternoon by passing $16,157,293 for the public debt and $210,900 for legislation, which includes next year's sessional indemnities for MLAs.

Estimates for the department of agriculture will come up at 2.30 p.m. Monday. This is likely to provoke a battle over the government's milk price decontrol policy.

Oldtimer E. E. Winch, a CCF member of the BC legislature continuously since 1933, celebrated a golden anniversary yesterday: his 50th speech in a debate in the House.

The Burnaby member expressed sorrow during his speech that Premier W. A. C. Bennett had admitted he was a supporter of Social Credit monetary theories.

"Oh, I'm sorry," Mr. Winch said. "You didn't have to do it, you know. You're there and they couldn't put you out—we could, but they couldn't."

* * *

Mr. Winch noted with amusement the wide extremes in thought of the two speakers chosen yesterday to wind up the budget debate—himself and Public Works Minister P. A. Gaglardi.

"Each of us is satisfied with the great difference between us," he said philosophically.

* * *

Abolition of the terms 'chron[illegible]' was suggested yesterday by Mr. Winch. He would prefer 'long term patients' and 'senior citizens' used instead.

* * *

The people in his home town of Kamloops look on Public Works Minister Gaglardi as and honest man, Mr. Gaglardi told the House Friday.

"When I say something, they know I'm telling the truth," he said. "And when I tell a lie, it's because I think I'm telling the truth. And that's no lie."

* * *

Mr. Winch went right back to the 1933 Regina manifesto yesterday to "enlighten" Victoria MLA W. N. Chant on the principles of socialism.

The Victoria Social Credit member the previous day had called socialism "a throwback to the historical tribal unit economy of an unscientific age." He had referred to regimented labor and "barbaric practices" of the USSR.

"Socialism," Mr. Winch said, "is the embodiment of democracy. You can't have socialism without democracy and you can't have democracy without socialism."

When Mr. Chant signified his disagreement, the CCF old timer went on: "Man, the two go together. You can't separate them. When are you going to grow up?"

He read from the manifesto on the principle of a "co-operative commonwealth" which he said was based on "an analysis of human history." Unemployment he said was constant under a capitalist society.

"Tomorrow is a new day and [illegible] closed.

Earlier Mr. Winch criticized the government for calling for tenders on the PGE extension without legislative approval and for refusing to refer the whole matter to the standing committee.

He said the CCF was committed to making the PGE into a real railway and the government, therefore, need not fear opposition on the principle. But because none of the MLAs were experts, they were entitled to hear the case presented in detail before they voted.

Mr. Winch asked for immediate appointment of new members to the B.C. Power Commission. He said men of high calibre were required to avoid the commission being used as ammunition for critics of public ownership. He said if it weren't for the B.C. Power Commission the province would be under a power monopoly of the worst type.

The Burnaby member then circulated a chart showing the rise in the number of commitments to B.C. jails since 1913. Most of the age groups and offense categories showed increases of 150 to 200 per cent.

Mr. Winch said he was alarmed at the number of repeaters which he said indicated [illegible] jails were not doing the proper job of making good citizens out of those imprisoned for short terms.

Police Warn Merchants Forged Cheques Passed

City merchants should be on the lookout for cheque forgeries, Detective Inspector Charles Webb of the city police force warned yesterday.

In Vancouver a series of 195 cheques bearing the stamp of McCormick Deering, Paragon Oil Ltd. and Major Pacific Irrigation Ltd. are missing as a result of a recent robbery.

Some were cashed in Vancouver on March 13. Inspector Webb feels attempts may be made to cash some in Victoria.

INCREASE NOTED

There has been a noticeable increase in worthless cheque passing in Victoria during the past year, Inspector Webb said.

"Know the person and the cheque will take care of itself," he advised. "But if you do not know the person and you believe the cheque to be good, ask the endorser to put his right thumb on your office stamp pad and leave a clear print on the back of the cheque along with his endorsement as a protection to you," he warns merchants.

"It will be a rare forger who will leave such evidence in your hands," he said.

MERCHANTS CAUTIOUS

Inspector Webb said: "The trouble is the merchants are always cautious because they feel this might hurt someone's feelings."

Retail merchants have been warned against a series of money orders which have been cleverly raised in amount and recently were being cashed in the Interior of British Columbia. Bob Cowan of Vancouver was recently found guilty and sentenced by Magistrate H. C. Hall in Victoria for a similar crime. He had also been tried in Vancouver for 11 similar offenses and convicted on one count.

Large sums have been lost by merchants in Haney, Kamloops, Falkland and Chase through cheque forgeries within the past week or two.

Passers of forged cheques are bold and daring in their methods. Recently a man entered a grocery in Haney. He picked up some groceries and presented a payroll cheque to the cashier in payment.

The cashier asked him to see the manager about it. The man went to the manager, stood beside him for a moment and then returned to the cashier. "Your boss says it's all right," he said.

That man's forgeries took $600 from Haney merchants.

WOMEN INVOLVED

Cheque forging and uttering is not a man's game alone. A woman is said to be operating in the Kamloops area.

Another woman who left a trail of forged cheques through the Okanagan, was recently sentenced.

The appearance of a cheque is no guarantee of its worth. Old age pension and children's allowance cheques are being stolen from the mail. Stamps and protectographs are frequently used by forgers.

Leftist Gains Cause Furor In Pakistan

KARACHI (AP) — The apparently overwhelming victory of the Communist-supported United Front in the recent East Pakistan state elections has shaken the central government and may cause the resignation of Premier Mohammed Ali.

Observers said Friday incomplete results of the voting for seats in East Pakistan's assembly indicate a setback for Ali's ruling Moslem League party.

The five-party opposition front which seeks to loosen the ties between East and West Pakistan, won 51 of the first 53 seats counted. Final results of the polling for the [illegible] assembly seats is not expected before March 25.

Firemen Linked By Radio Alarm

The new radio alarm system linking Langford and Colwood volunteer fire departments with the Saanich alarm room will probably come into operation about April 1, says Langford Fire Chief Rod Bayles.

It will replace the "courtesy call" system, which is eliminated when manual telephone exchanges at Colquitz and Belmont are replaced by automatic dial equipment.

[illegible] to Saanich [illegible] system comes in [illegible] ask the operator for [illegible] alarm room. Later they will be able to dial the number.

A trained Saanich operator will press a button which sends out a radio beam. The beam activates a timer in Langford or Colwood fire hall, and this in turn sounds a siren.

First man in the hall will get in touch with the alarm room by radio to locate the fire.

The person turning in the alarm must report exactly where the fire is: house number and street. The operator will check the location from a quick reference list, to determine whether it is in the Langford or Colwood fire protection district.

If it isn't in either district, he will not send the radio signal. He will simply telephone one of the two departments and let them decide whether they will attend a fire outside their boundaries.

Langford department will not attend such calls, Chief Bayles said.

"Now is the time for people to find out whether they are in the fire protection district," he added.

[illegible] Saanich alarm room will be tape-recorded so that there can be no dispute over mistaken addresses. This equipment has yet to be installed.

A call-back signal informs the Saanich alarm-room man when the radio signal has tripped the siren. In case the radio signal fails, there are emergency telephones.

The radio set in Langford ambulance was tested yesterday at points as far away as the Malahat, and it worked perfectly. Another set is installed in the hall. It is tuned to the same frequency as sets in the Colwood and Greater Victoria halls and vehicles.

Thomas Coutts, famous London banker, was banker to George III in the 18th century.

Salvage Try Planned

Two young adventurers from Juneau, Alaska soon will make an attempt to salvage the cargo and machinery from Canadian coastal liner Princess Kathleen which sank in September, 1952.

The two who are reported to make the attempt are Magnus Hansen and Wendell Johnson who recently completed a deep sea diving course in California.

The Kathleen sank after running aground at Point Lena, 17 miles south of Juneau. She lies in 60 feet of water and has been reported likely to slip into deeper water.

The ship has been abandoned by underwriters and is therefore available to anyone who wishes to attempt a salvage operation.

Where on Earth
Is A Paradise For Spinsters?
by TED AYWOOD

Short, tall, skinny or plump, the unmarried girl is treated like a princess by the men in Papua, New Guinea. The reason: There are 30 marriageable white males for every adult, unmarried female in this rare town. For the single girl determined to make some one a good wife, Papua is a far way to travel, but with the odds so overwhelmingly in her favor—well, why not?

A social whirl that is every spinster's dream was given an Australian lass by the romantic Papuan males recently. Arriving in Wewak, the startled young lady was met at the plane by the town's entire bachelor population. During her stay, they followed her everywhere, begging for her company at dinners, parties and dances. All too soon she had to return home, where she was unenviably ignored as "just another girl."

Papua, the bachelor girl's utopia, has a few rules for the ladies, however. Shorts and bare midriffs are forbidden as is swimming when there are natives around. Girls are warned against going out at night unescorted (little chance of that, however) and finally they must remember that beauty can fade rapidly in the tropics. Well, even paradise must have its pitfalls!

Alas, just the opposite of the ideal condition in Papua prevails in Aurora, Ill. There, as in so many American cities, the girls far outnumber the boys. Every Leap Year the ladies have their day of revenge. They are allowed to take over city offices for one day, and any errant bachelor is quickly caught and jailed. After appearing before Madam Judge these "public enemies number one" are fined to buy candy and flowers for their female captors.

Less subtle perhaps than a visit to Papua, New Guinea, the Aurora approach practically guarantees a girl that she'll get her man.

Tradition Bars Mountbatten

LONDON (NANA) — A conflict between two hallowed traditions of the Royal Navy imperils Admiral Earl Mountbatten's hopes to take command of Britain's fleet—the job from which his father was driven by popular clamor 40 years ago.

Mountbatten of Burma, former governor-general of India and wartime supreme Allied commander in South-East Asia, will end his two-year term as commander-in-chief, Mediterranean, in May. One custom says he should then become Britain's first sea lord.

But Earl Mountbatten is only 53, and could remain in the job for seven years or more.

Another tradition, since Admiral of the Fleet Earl Beatty became first sea lord in 1919 and remained at the Admiralty until 1927, says that such long terms should be avoided. They are considered to bar deserved promotion to other senior admirals.

Earl Mountbatten's father, Admiral of the Fleet Louis of Battenberg, perhaps more than anyone else, built and equipped the British Navy to meet German sea forces in the First World War. He gave the order to mobilize the fleet, but when a wave of anti-German feeling engulfed Britain, he was sacrificed because of his German origins.

The navy is actively aware of Earl Mountbatten's ambition for appointment to the post his father held. But it is understood he may be sidetracked to a three-year appointment as commander-in-chief, Portsmouth. At 56 the navy believes he would be fully qualified to step into the first sea lord's job without provoking criticism from older admirals with their eye on the navy's most exalted rank.

Congress Queries H-Bomb Errors

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R., N.Y.) said Friday a congressional investigation will be pushed to determine whether avoidable errors were made during the hydrogen blast in the Pacific, March 1.

Cole said the congressional atomic energy committee, which he heads, has begun questioning United States Atomic Energy Commission officials in closed sessions.

Two committee members, Representatives Melvin Price (D., Ill.) and James Van Zandt (R., Pa.), Thursday called for a full-scale probe to learn why the 315 persons subjected to unexpected radiation exposure were allowed close enough to the blast zone to be endangered.

The blast, reported to have been three or four times greater than expected, spilled nuclear dust well beyond the "hazard zone" which had been drawn. Its power has been estimated at between 600 and 700 times that of the 1945 Hiroshima atom bomb, which killed 6,000 persons.

Twenty-three Japanese fishermen, 80 miles away and outside the hazard zone, were severely burned.

B.C. Tories Spark Attack On Socreds

OTTAWA (CP)—Solon Low struck back Friday at a sharply-worded Conservative statement criticizing his Social Credit party.

He said in an interview that he agrees with only this part of the statement: "There never has been and never can be any agreement or rapprochement between the Conservative party and the Social Credit movement."

Adopted Wednesday at a closed session of the annual meeting of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, the statement was moved by Allan Ainsworth, Vancouver, and seconded by Mrs. E. Buell, Alberni. It said the Social Credit movement "constitutes a potential danger to Canadian democracy and is, in fact, a Trojan horse within our gates."

The statement said the Social Credit party "believes in theories of state capitalism, and restrictions of the rights and liberty of the individual and of the press."

Volkswagens No Cheaper In Victoria

The 7 per cent cut in the price of the Volkswagen car which was announced in Bonn, Germany, does not apply to Canada, Verne Bruce, sales manager of a Victoria firm handling the car said yesterday.

As far as he knew the price cut applied only on European sales, he said. There had been no word of any reduction here.

But even if there were a decrease it would apply only to factory prices. Fixed freight charges would keep cuts far below 7 per cent, Mr. Bruce said.

Book on Royalty By Ex-Victorian

Publication of a lively book about the British Royal Family, which was written by a Victoria College graduate and a former resident of Oak Bay, is expected to cause widespread controversy in Canada and the U.S.

The author, Pierre Berton, received his schooling here at Monterey School, Oak Bay High and Victoria College.

His book, "The Royal Family," has already been widely reviewed in the United States, where The New York Times called it "a little classic of pioneer research."

Mr. Berton is managing editor of Maclean's Magazine.

Red Leader Resigns

WARSAW (AP) — Boleslaw Bierut, No. 1 Communist leader in Poland since the end of the Second World War, has resigned from the premiership to become first secretary of the ruling United Polish Workers Communist party.

Vice-Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz who held the premiership until the government reorganization of November, 1952, was restored to his old post as premier.

Western observers in Vienna believe the switch in the Polish leadership was made on Moscow orders as part of a general Kremlin plan to end the "cult of heroes" that prevailed in the Communist world during Stalin's time replacing one-man dictatorships with "government by committee."

He received the money from Fred Ellis, manager of the Victoria branch of Buckerfield's Ltd., sponsors of the contest.

Mr. Thwaites had his name drawn in Vancouver Tuesday.

The money will be used to pay some of the costs of a trip to England for Mrs. Thwaites next year.

Winning Contract

By Howard Schenken and Richard L. Frey

Sixteen prearranged "par" deals, recently played in more than 150 colleges to decide the 1954 Intercollegiate Bridge Championships, are being presented here. To play these deals in your own game, instead of reading the par results now, save the series until completed. Then have the deals stacked in duplicate boards. (Or, for each deal you may use four envelopes, each marked to identify the player whose hand it contains, and to indicate dealer and vulnerability.) Arrange for one or more tables to play the hands, then compare results with the pars stated here each day.

INTERCOLLEGIATE HAND NO. 7

SOUTH

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1♡	Pass
2♡	Pass	2 N.T.	Pass
3♡	Pass	4♡	All pass

North has 18 points, and some players may be tempted to open with one no-trump. While it is correct to ignore a five-card suit and bid no-trump if all the other requirements are met, this should not be done on maximum-counting hands because you must take into account the value of the five-card suit. It is absurd to count the actual North-South hand as no better than if North's fifth heart were a low card in one of the other three suits, when it will often win an additional trick. You can see how bidding one no-trump with North's hand throws the mathematics out of kilter, because South should pass that bid when game can be made at hearts, or might even be made at no-trump if the East-West cards were reversed.

Having reached four hearts, there is still the task of making that contract. East opens the Club queen. If North wins this trick, he is doomed to defeat. Whenever he gives up a diamond trick and regardless of which hand he loses it to—West can get in with the club king and push a spade through North's king. The defenders will win two spades, a club and a diamond.

However, if North ducks the first club, the contract is makable. Now there is no sure way to put West on lead. North will be able to draw trumps, ending in dummy, and lead a low diamond toward his hand. When West plays low, he ducks the trick to East by playing the diamond nine. Later, South's fourth diamond provides a discard for one of North's spades (if the opponents haven't already cashed the spade ace).

Martin Says Announcement Due in House

Dental Faculty for UBC Indicated

The Hon. Eric Martin, minister of health and welfare, told members of the B.C. Dental Association last night that they could expect an optimistic announcement from the floor of the House shortly concerning a dental faculty for UBC.

His announcement was greeted with cheers from doctor delegates who were attending a convention banquet in the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Martin said the fact that B.C. did not have a dental college resulted in Canada losing many of her most promising young men. He said a large number had been taking their training in Washington and Oregon, and were not returning to this province.

"There is a terrible shortage of dentists not only in B.C., but all over Canada," he said.

After explaining that there had not been any increased teaching facilities provided in the last 25 years, Mr. Martin said it was essential that something be done in the field of dentistry as rapidly as possible.

He told members to contain their patience for a little while longer because the government agreed in principle with their requests, and that the next step was the provision of funds to make the dental faculty a reality.

Guest speaker Dr. Brock Chisholm, former director-general of the World Health Organization, told the group that it was up to each and every individual in the prosperous countries of the world to do their part in preventing another world war.

"Help has to be given by people that have to people that do not have," Dr. Chisholm said.

Explaining that untild millions in the world did not know what it was like not to go hungry, Mr. Chisholm said that the eyes of millions of people were on Canada because it represented "unimaginable prosperity."

He stated that since the people of Canada did not realize the situation as it existed, they did not press the government to increase budgets to such organizations as the UN.

Critics Silenced

Gaglardi Raps CCF, Liberals As Debate Brought to Close

BY T. A. MYERS
Colonist Legislative Reporter

The government spoke with its most thunderous voice yesterday afternoon to silence the critics of its $204,000,000 budget.

Public Works Minister P. A. Gaglardi, who developed his oratorical style behind the pulpit of a Pentacostal church and his aggressiveness at the controls of a bulldozer, was the man the premier chose to wrap up the budget debate.

The minister ran a verbal bulldozer over the CCF and Liberal groups collectively and most of their members individually. Then he called on them to support the Bennett Budget. And when the vote was taken, no one voted "no."

SPECIAL TARGET

Mr. Gaglardi's special target was Liberal Leader Arthur Laing, "the crepe-hanger," the "spreader of gloom." Mr. Laing and his followers were trying to block progress by "sitting on the tracks of the PGE." He warned them they were "going to be run over."

The only Liberal who got a kind word was freshman MLA George Gregory of Victoria who, Mr. Gaglardi said, was such a bright young man he would probably end up on the government side of the house.

He criticized Liberal Gordon Gibson's analysis of PGE losses as "a hodge-podge of figures based on nothing." Mr. Gibson's three-hour plea for a committee investigation of the southern PGE extension, like the PGE itself, "started nowhere, ended nowhere and went nowhere."

CREDIT TO LIBERALS

Later in his speech the minister admitted that $10,000,000 of the $36,000,000 debt reduction which Social Credit has claimed was actually accomplished by the late Liberal government.

He told the House "the tragic story that's never been told before" of how Byron Johnson, just before he left office, used $10,000,000 of surplus funds for debt reduction, "money that was earmarked to pay for services that had been contracted for."

"Highway contracts," Premier Bennett interjected.

"They used that money for debt reduction so when we came in we were poverty-poor," Mr. Gaglardi said.

"And we had to go and borrow money," the premier added.

Mr. Gaglardi defended the government's proposed replacement of hospital insurance premiums by a 2 per cent increase in the sales tax.

This, he said, was "the best thing for the working man that ever happened in this province . . . ." The thumping of Social Credit desks almost drowned out the qualifying phrase, "as far as insurance is concerned."

CCFERS BERATED

Mr. Gaglardi berated CCFers Leo Nimsick and Randolph Harding for their criticisms of the government's Doukhobor problem.

This kind of talk, he said, was "only adding fuel to the fire," probably stirring up new trouble among the Sons of Freedom.

Kidnap Try Thwarted

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—A trembling man tried and failed Friday to kidnap a little boy from school, but he wounded one man teacher and put a bullet through a door that three women were bracing against him.

He fled and all detectives in the city were put on the chase.

The teacher who was wounded, Manvel Schauffler, suffered only a shattered finger and a head bump.

The boy who was the object of the attempt, George F. Brice III, 9, son of a wealthy real estate man, didn't know about it until it was all over and he was called to the principal's office at Catlin-Hillside, a private school in the city's northwest hills.

The would-be kidnapper had gone to the Brice home, thinking this was a school holiday, then forced Mrs. Brice and the family maid, Lizzie Mae Brown, at pistol point to drive him to the school. Mrs. Brice said he seemed drunk or drugged and was trembling.

But at the school he let Mrs. Brice go in alone when she assured him that no child is allowed to leave during school hours unless called for by a parent.

She warned officials and Principal James Angell phoned for police. The man shortly followed Mrs. Brice and a chase started with Mrs. Brice running into the adjoining fifth grade room. She, the teacher, Mrs. Ema Lou Lawrence, and the principal's wife who had run in there, too, held the door and called for the children—some 10 were in the room—to help.

Schauffler, in the corridor, saw the man with a gun at the door and made a grab for him.

Three shots were fired in quick succession, one shattering Schauffler's finger, one hitting a wall and one going through the door inches above Mrs. Lawrence's head, showering her with wood splinters.

Housing Act Proclaimed

OTTAWA (CP)—The government Friday boosted the loans ceiling under its new housing legislation to $12,800 from $10,000 for a single house, but raised the maximum interest rate to 5½ per cent from 5¼.

The new legislation, which makes loans more expensive but extends the time to pay and reduces down payments on new homes, goes into operation Monday, about three months after it first began rolling through the parliamentary mill.

The proclamation date was announced in the Commons by Works Minister Winters who also made these points:

The interest rate for limited dividend companies—those who build rental housing for low-income families and keep company profits at a minimum of 5 per cent—will remain unchanged at 3¾ per cent.

Home buyers who prepay their annual tax bills by monthly payments to mortgage holders will get interest on their payments at the bank rate of 2 per cent.

The bill, considered by the government as one of its major pieces of legislation in the current parliamentary session, opens the mortgage-lending field to chartered banks and the Quebec savings bank for the first time.

French Planes Busy

SAIGON, Indo-China—French planes blasted dug-in Communist Vietminh troops with bombs and flaming jellied gasoline around Dien Bien Phu Friday as swarms of helicopters lifted wounded French soldiers from the beleaguered fortress.

Waves of fighters and bombers struck at the Communist rebels for the third straight day. Between the air blows, helicopters carried out casualties from blody fighting around the isolated fort in north-west Indo-China.

But there was little ground fighting. Rebel soldiers dug in barely 200 yards from French lines during last night's full moon but failed to make the expected night attacks.

Sun Likely To Remain

Bright skies and gentle breezes are the week-end outlook for the lower Island according to the weather office. In fact, the sunshine seems likely to remain for some time, the forecasters say.

It's all due to the benign influence of a zone of high pressure nearly 1,000 miles out in the Pacific. Weather officials have observed a low-pressure centre bearing this way, but it seems likely to bounce off the high pressure area and go skidding off in the direction of Alaska, which doesn't expect anything better, anyway.

Jaycees Provide Colorful Greeting to Visitors

Victoria begins wearing a new welcome mat today. Letters 12-feet high which spell out "Welcome to Victoria" will be cut out of the turf on the grassy Causeway embankment right in front of the Legislative Buildings. Flowers will be planted later and should be blooming when this summer's tourist season reaches its height.

Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce, which sponsored the plan, has kept it a closely-guarded secret since it was first mooted two months ago. The idea was suggested by Frank Mannix, 993 Admirals, and quickly found support among the members of the tourist and industrial development committee of the Jaycees. The provincial government was approached and permission was granted. The cut-outs will be made this morning by a group of 30 Jaycees. White alyssums will be planted next month as well as red geraniums. The red flowers will be planted in thin lines down the middle of the vertical strokes of the letters. This innovation will greet tourists coming to Victoria by ship and will be visible also from the Victoria and Island Tourist Bureau and the Empress Hotel. Total cost of the scheme will be paid for from proceeds derived from last year's B.C. Products Fair. "It won't cost residents a cent," said a spokesman last night. "We hope it will be renewed annually."

Budget Clearance Speeds Session

The current session of the legislature may end two weeks or more ahead of schedule.

With the budget debate out of the way, the decks are now cleared for action on estimates and legislation, a job the House may be able to finish in two weeks of hard slugging.

Premier Bennett said Friday he hoped things would go smoothly enough to eliminate the need for night sittings. Opposition Leader Arnold Webster said he hoped the House would prorogue on April 2.

Earlier estimates were that the session would last at least until April 15, the day before Good Friday, and many MLA's expected to be called back to Victoria after an Easter recess.
